Senator Miller on New York Politics.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—United States Senator Warner Miller of New York passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Denver, where he will deliver the address at the opening of the mining industrial exhibition. A reporter who saw the senator at the Leland hotel, asked what he thought were prospects of the republican party this year in New York. "They are encouraging," he answered, "and I think we have a good fighting chance of carrying the state. When the republicans are united in New York they are in the majority and present indications lead me to believe we shall have perfect harmony in the party. In New York City they have adopted a new plank, allowing all republicans to participate in primaries, simply requiring them to register in advance. Under this new system primaries will be held and it secures satisfaction to all factions."

"Is there going to be much of a fight for nomination?"

"I think not. Present incumbents who were elected in 1881 were mostly new men, and it is customary to give two terms. [illegible] will probably be renominated. We carried the state in 1880, and I cannot see why it cannot be done again in 1884." The senator would not express any opinion about the presidential nomination, merely saying that any good man would be acceptable to the party.

The Next Republican Convention.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—Hon. John A. Martin of Atchison, Kan., secretary of the national republican committee, now in this city, said yesterday that the committee would convene at Washington December [illegible] to appoint a time and to select a place for holding the national convention. He did not know what city would be selected, though from letters he had received it was clear that Cincinnati and Saratoga would be applicants. Being asked what was the condition of the prohibition question in Kansas, he said there was some talk in the direction of repealing the amendment. This chiefly emanated from democrats. As it was now a part of the constitution it would have to be submitted to the people to reach such a result. St. John's defeat was not altogether due to the liquor question. The third term question injured him, besides his unpopularity with politicians. Kansas would be heard from in a very different manner next year.

The Threatened Strike of Telegraphers.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—It is asserted here to-day by parties unusually well informed that the executive committee of the Brotherhood of Telegraphers held a meeting in New York last Monday, at which they discussed the grievances of the brotherhood, and formulated a demand for redress of them, which will be presented to the general manager or other high officials of the Western Union Telegraph Company next Monday. If this demand is not acceded to within forty-eight hours after its presentation to the company, it is alleged, a strike will be inaugurated, and every member of the brotherhood will quit work. This executive committee is composed of one representative from each of the seven districts into which the brotherhood is divided, and it is said to have absolute power to act in this matter.

NEW YORK, July 11.—In reference to the recently published reports of contemplated changes in the hours of labor, salaries, etc., of the employes of the Western Union Telegraph Company, careful investigation developed the following: The company has had in contemplation for some time the adoption of new rules for the management of its business. Following is a rule adopted: "At all independent Western Union offices, which may be required to keep open all day Sunday, nine hours actual service in the day, six days in the week and seven hours actual service at night seven nights in the week will constitute a week's work. All service in excess of the above named hours, including Sunday, will be regarded as extra, and be paid for at regular salary rates on a basis of seven hours to a day."

PITTSBURG, July 11.—Thomas Hughes, secretary of the Telegraphers' Brotherhood, said to-day that the report that a strike of telegraphers is imminent is unfounded. "We have not decided to demand an increase in wages, or anything else," he said, "and any demand should be decided upon it will be made secretly, and no attempt will be made to make snap judgment on the telegraph companies." Other persons assert that the strike will take place next week.

Steps toward Improving the Mississippi.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—A conference called together through the efforts of the merchants' exchange of St. Louis to consider the most practicable course to pursue in advocating improvements for the Mississippi river met this evening at the Southern hotel. The conference was composed of delegates appointed by representative commercial leaders of every important city in the valley states. Twenty cities were represented, some of them, especially New Orleans, sending a strong delegation. Besides the delegates there were present Charles Foster, governor of Ohio; United States Senator Miller, of New York; Speaker Keifer and ex-Congressman Townsend, who are here, however, on another mission. The conference was called to order by J. C. Ewald, president of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis. The convention then effected permanent organization by electing B. Wood, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, permanent chairman, and G. L. Wright permanent secretary. Committees on resolutions and order of business were appointed and the conference adjourned.

The Tertio-Millennial.

SANTA FE, N. M., June 11.—This has proved among the most successful days of the tertio-millennial exposition. The firemen from Trinidad, Colorado, and Las Vegas, N. M., together with the Santa Fe team took part in the tournament. During the afternoon companies from Trinidad and Santa Fe took honors, their time being 48½ and 44 seconds respectively. The Apache entertainment continues with unabated interest. The entertainment will last without cessation for four days and [illegible] nights, and is known as the devil dance, or [illegible]. It is the Apache version of the [illegible]. The story runs that a young Indian maiden, daughter of Pretty Beads and [illegible], is tempted by the devil, Chinita, in many ways and disguises, her greatest being when the devil assumes the form of Cortez, the renowned Spaniard. To-night the grand firemen's ball is in progress in the main exhibition hall. The mineral exhibits, which are now complete, are the most striking feature of the exhibition. The ore exhibited is valued at many thousand dollars, and its general rich character is attracting the attention of miners and capitalists from every quarter of the globe.

Patriarchs of the Circle.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The supreme temple of Patriarchs of the Circle, an adjunct of the order of Odd Fellows, a uniformed, semi-military organization, began its annual session and conclave in this city to-day. One thousand uniformed knights have already arrived, and will take part in the parade to-morrow afternoon. This morning the visitors were escorted to headquarters of the Occidental temple of this city, where they presented their credentials, and were afterwards escorted to their respective hotels. At 11 o'clock the Occidental temple, 100 strong, served as an escort to the right [illegible] representatives of the patriarchal circle, and escorted them to the supreme temple in the [illegible] church block. On arrival there the patriarchal circle went into executive session, and heard reports of the supreme oracle, supreme secretary and supreme treasurer. This afternoon a reception in honor of the visiting patriarchs and their ladies was held at headquarters of the Occidental temple. The street parade of the commanderies will occur to-morrow, and a prize drill the following day.

The "World" on West Point.

NEW YORK, July 11.—[Special.]—The World having referred to West Point cadets as charity students, in articles demanding fair play for the colored cadet Alexander, a West Point writer: "Do you mean to be partial to negro cadets? You may be sure he will have an actual chance and all his rights. [illegible] and more [illegible] from some newspapers [illegible] other cadets." The World replies: "West Point students put on an exclusive air towards an American cadet whose skin or [illegible] or blood [illegible] them. [illegible]. The only way to prevent the people of the United States from abolishing the school is to prevent its becoming a hot-bed of martial aristocracy."

A Woman Revivalist Charged with Libel.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—A special says that at [illegible], New York, last Sunday, in a harangue of Mrs. [illegible] Lavender, revivalist, she was reported as making very pointed allusions to a young man who [illegible] one of her former meetings, and conducted himself in an improper manner. The speaker alleged that on the next Sunday the disorderly man went to the river bathing and was drowned. Wm. [illegible], of Albany, read a newspaper report, and considering the allusion was made to his own son [illegible], who was drowned two years ago, made complaint against Mrs. Lavender for criminal libel. The accused was arrested and gave bail to await the action of the grand jury.

The Last Spike September 8.

[illegible], July 11.—[Special.]—Governor Schuyler Crosby of Montana, arrived from the east yesterday, and in an interview said: "I saw President Villard, of the Northern Pacific railroad and learned definitely when the road will be opened for business. The last spike will be driven about twenty miles west of Helena, Montana territory, on September 8. Mr. Villard has made arrangements with different roads for special cars and has issued invitations to a large number of prominent men to be present. All leading railroads will be represented and many prominent politicians and other public men have signified their intention to attend."

Excursion Time Extended.

CHICAGO, July 11.—At a meeting of the Colorado pool association this afternoon terms were decided [illegible] all members of the Grand Army of the Republic, residents of states other than Kansas and Nebraska, will be permitted to return from Denver to [illegible] up to August 31, upon presenting their certificates to the commissioner of the Colorado pool at Denver prior to Aug. 5, exchanging their return ticket and paying $2.50 for the privilege. [illegible]

Saved by the Firemen.

CHICAGO, June 11.—[Special.]—Thomas King, fireman on a freight train on the Milwaukee and St. Paul road, gave an exhibition of nerve and coolness to-day. The train near Frankeville was going thirty miles an hour when a child was discovered standing on the track a short distance ahead paralyzed with fear. It was impossible to stop the train in time to save the little one, and King ran forward and stationed himself on the cow-catcher. Bracing himself he advanced one foot as far as possible, and as the train reached the child lifted it from the track with his foot and tripped it unceremoniously but safely into a ditch. The mother had just discovered its peril and stood transfixed with horror.

The Senatorial Contest.

CONCORD, N. H., July 10.—[Special.]—It is reported to-night that Rollins has summoned his workers from all parts of the state, and declared that the utmost effort will be made to bring out his full strength to-morrow. A conference was held to-night, and they declare that they have reasons for encouragement, but they do not state them. There are rumors that Roberts has made efforts to draw over to him Marston, Stevens and Briggs, with their forces.

CONCORD, N. H., July 11.—There was no result in the ballot for United States Senate to-day, and the situation is about the same.

Belford's Denial.

DENVER, July 11.—Congressman Belford, in an interview to-night, indignantly and emphatically denies that he was retained by ex-Senator Tabor to represent his interests in the selection of the site for the government building at Denver, and says he knows, of his own knowledge, that Architect Hill was never offered and never received a cent to locate the building near Tabor's property. He charges that all of these stories are part of a scheme to have the question of location reopened, in hopes of defeating the Tabor location.

Convention of Commercial Travelers.

CLEVELAND, July 12.—The national convention of commercial travelers began its annual session here to-day. Forty delegates were present, representing New York, New England, Indiana, Western and Cleveland associations, besides a large number of new delegates. An address of welcome was rendered by Mayor Farley. The response was by M. P. Cole, of Boston, president of the association.

Astor's Proposed Yacht.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—[Special.]—Times: Wm. B. Astor has sent specifications for his new yacht to various shipbuilders including Cramp & Sons of this city, for an estimate of the cost of construction. Naval Architect Hoffman, who designed Bennett's yacht, has prepared plans for the floating palace. The design, Wm. Cramp said yesterday, is much after the pattern of the Atalanta.

Assisted, but not Paupers.

BOSTON, July 11.—About 300 "assisted" emigrants arrived this morning on the "Austrian." They consist mainly of families and are better clad and more healthy than their predecessors. Most of them have money and are bound west. Inquiries among them developed that none of them were of the pauper class.

Must be Returned.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Five pauper Polish families have been brought to this port by the steamer Lydian Monarch. The emigration authorities have informed the steamship company that these immigrants must be returned to London whence they came.

Half Holiday granted.

Will Establish a Colony.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—Lord Dunmore has purchased 15,000 acres of land, at a cost of $150,000 from the Northwest Land Company. He intends bringing over Englishmen as settlers.

Oil Drillers for California.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—[Special.]—Oil drillers and their families, numbering forty persons, have gone from Bradford, McKean county, Pa., to bore near Newhall, Cal.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RATES.

The Chicago "Tribune" Characterizes them as Exorbitant.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Tribune says: "There can hardly fail to be some disappointment in the public mind as to the rates which it is announced the Northern Pacific will charge travelers over its lines to the Pacific coast. In a recent interview in St. Paul, General Traffic Manager Muir stated to our reporter that the rate for first-class passengers from St. Paul to Portland would be $100, and that for intermediate points and for second class, proportionate figures would be made. The distance between the two terminal points of the Northern Pacific being 1916 miles, this charge of $100 is at the rate of more than five and one half cents per mile. It must be remembered that the charge for sleeping car accommodations will be extra and heavy, and the cost of meals and incidentals will make the whole cost quite as much as that of a sail twice as long across the ocean to Europe. At those prices, after a man of moderate means had gone with his family of, say one wife, which is a full allowance this side of Salt Lake, and four children, and had enjoyed the seductive pleasures of sleeping cars and dining cars and parlor reclining chairs, he would find himself out of pocket of about all he could save in a year. The traffic manager of the Northern Pacific seeks to make the charges which he announced look reasonable by comparison between them and those of the Union and Central Pacific roads.

AN UNFORTUNATE COMPARISON.

This is an unfortunate comparison. These roads are managed by men who have made themselves and the corporations under which they have cloaked their rapacity, odious by extortion and disregard of the people's rights and interests. The slight difference which he shows to exist in favor of the charges of the Northern Pacific, is by no means large enough. It is worse yet for Mr. Muir's comparison that information has just reached us that the railroad commissioner of California, at last frightened into action by symptoms of righteous popular wrath with their complacent tolerance of the outrages of the Stanford-Crocker gang, have reduced the rates of the Central and Southern Pacific to 5 cents a mile on all their system except where they cross mountains and desert, and on one branch. This leaves the Northern Pacific rates 30 per cent higher than those of the most unconscionable monopoly among the American railroads, and that too in the face of the fact of which the Northern Pacific are never tired of reminding us, that they have not a mile of desert, and that their mountain passes are thousands of feet lower than those of the other trans-continental lines.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

OREGON AND TRANSCONTINENTAL NOTES.

NEW YORK, July 11.—[Special.]—Kiernan's News: At the Oregon and Transcontinental directors' next meeting to-morrow the report of the financial condition of the company will be presented, and after being passed upon by the board it will be given to the public. Only one director besides Villard is known to have seen the figures. The report is said to make a very favorable showing. Oakes, of the Northern Pacific, arrived in New York to-day. The gap on the main line is down to 106 miles. Work during the last week was mainly on sidings.

COLORADO TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Colorado Traffic Association has been in session in this city yesterday and to-day, considering the re-enactment of the pool on business west of the Missouri river, as the existing pool expires the 31st inst. The members are unable to reach an understanding upon the percentages, as J. R. Tucker, who was appointed arbitrator to fix percentages under the existing pool, is now in the east and will not return for some time. Adjournment was taken till August 6, and meantime the existing pool will remain in force.

ALL THE STOCK SOLD.

BOSTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Transcript: The Oregon Improvement Company have sold the entire million of new stock issued last January, mostly to Boston investors. It was marketed very quietly in the latter half of January at within [illegible] per cent. of the market price.

THE COLORADO POOL.

CHICAGO, July 11.—A meeting of railroad officials interested in the Colorado pool is in session here to-day, with a view to its reorganization, growing out of the claim of certain new lines to be recognized as competitors.

THE PRIZE RING.

SLADE'S TRIUMPHANT RETURN.

NEW YORK, July 11.—[Special.]—The Mace-Slade combination arrived here on the Alaska Sunday. Mace writes to a sensational paper here that Slade brings back as trophies the champion belts of America and Australia, the belt for the middle weight championship of England, the Illustrated Sporting News belt, the champion competition belt, the championship belt of old England, the same that was fought for by Heenan and Sayers, the Wiedham gold cup, the Norwich presentation plate, the Leeds champion goblet, the Dublin international challenge cup, and the Belfast goblet.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES.

LANGTRY AND GEBHARDT AND THEIR CAR.

LONG BRANCH, July 11.—[Special.]—Gebhardt stays at the Central hotel while Langtry lodges and eats in the private car. He obtained the refusal of the cottage formerly owned by Lester Wallack, called "The Hut," for himself and the Lily, but decided not to take it. It is said they will visit several resorts in this car, remaining a few days in each place. The car stands off the track at the Central depot, and is constantly guarded by two colored men, the porter and the cook. Streams of villagers visited the spot to-day in hopes of catching a glimpse of the occupants.

A WORLD OF GOOD.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters, as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old-fashioned bone-set tea, that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

THE MEXICO CHARTERED FOR SOUND ROUTE.

Perfectly Satisfied with the Northwest.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—[Special.]—The freight and passenger movement to Oregon and Washington territory has very recently received an impetus to the already large movement which the spring opened. Even the usual falling off at this time of the year of immigrants from the east and the west is fully made up by the number of foreign immigrants arriving here en route to the northwest. A significant feature of the movement is that lately quite a number of settlers have returned here on their way to former locations to bring out their families with them, and locate permanently in Oregon and Washington territory. The effect of this feature upon the immigration association of this state is that it has been used as an argument against the above sections by either purposely misrepresenting the true cause of the return of immigrants, or from a lack of knowledge of the cause. A number of those returning immigrants who were spoken to by an OREGONIAN correspondent, stated that they had found what they were looking for, and were on their way to bring out their families, and that no inducements could be offered them to forego their locations north.

The Mexico Chartered for the Sound Route.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—[Special.]—Arrangements have been finally completed by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company for the charter of the steamship Mexico, which is to be placed on the sound route from this city. The rapid developments of trade which have made an increase in the regular trips of the Dakota and Idaho necessary have grown more urgent, and besides resulting in forced runs have given little time at either end. By the new schedule, which goes into effect on the 20th, departures will be made every five days, leaving this city at 10 A. M. instead of 2 P. M. Meanwhile, commencing Friday next, sailing from this port will be as follows: Elder, 24th; Dakota, 20th. Capt. Thomas Huntington, master of the Mexico, remains in command. The vessel was built here by Dickie Bros., and is a new and excellent sea boat.

Return of a Traveled and Cultured Indian.

[Special.]—Winnie, son of the chief of the Warm Spring Indians, arrived from the east on Monday, and left for Portland this morning. He speaks in glowing terms of his trip through Europe, and judging from his conversation, he is an excellent example of what the noble red man might become under more favorable auspices. He speaks German intelligently and from the general subjects upon which he conversed he seems to be imbued with thoroughly democratic ideas. During his stay in Washington he met Chief Moses and understood from him that the offer made by the government for the reservation which it is proposed to open to settlement was not satisfactory. Moses also stated that he disliked the prospect of being removed to the Indian territory. Asked what the chief would do in regard to the unsatisfactory state of affairs, Winnie answered by giving your correspondent a highly philosophical speech on the uncertainty of all things human, saying that it was impossible to foretell the to-morrow.

Will Summon the Railroad Commissioners.

The democratic state central committee met this evening. The object was to consider the course pursued by Railroad Commissioners Carpenter and Humphreys, and the desirability of requesting the governor to call a special session to impeach the action of the two commissioners. Notwithstanding the fact that reporters were excluded sufficient of the proceedings became known that the substance of debate was whether the commissioners would be reached by an impeachment process, and whether the adoption of a course leading to such result would be for the best interests of the democratic party. After much argument for and against it was decided to summon Carpenter and Humphreys to appear before a committee of five, appointed to examine and investigate their acts, said committee to report the result of the investigation to the state central committee.

Steamer Notes.

The steamer Sardonyx has undergone thorough repairing, and is refitted with splendid stateroom accommodations. Passengers leave for Victoria, Nanaimo and New Westminster Saturday next.

Captain W. E. Moore, who has been in command of the revenue steamer W. E. Chandler, on the Atlantic coast, has received orders from Washington to proceed to Port Townsend, to take command of the revenue cutter Oliver Wolcott, now on the Puget Sound station.

The Cramps of Philadelphia, will in a few days commence to lay the keel of an iron steamship to replace the ill-fated Tacoma, for the Central Pacific railroad.

Farrar-Biven.

[Special.]—L. C. Farrar of Portland and Miss Lulu Biven were married on Monday by Rev. Joseph Garrigs, at the residence of Mrs. A. Viguier of this city. The ceremony, which was private, was witnessed by the parents and other relatives of the contracting parties. The parlors were profusely decorated with flowers and presents numerous and costly. The newly married couple left for Portland this morning, where they will reside. A number of beautiful floral offerings, one of which was an elegant marriage bell, were taken on board.

Freight for the Northwest.

[Special.]—Eastern freights have increased in the past two weeks, particularly so in tobacco, dry goods, machines and farming implements, the latter importations forming the chief articles for shipment north. Iron pipe is also shipped in large quantities, both to Portland and to the Sound. The bark Davy Crockett from New York commenced discharging heavy pipe to-day for the Seattle water works. The contract for large pipes for the Portland Water Company was recently awarded to a foundry here, which recently commenced delivery.

Accident to the Sardonyx.

[Special.]—The steamer Sardonyx completed her repairs this afternoon, and while preparing to leave the dry dock sustained additional damages. One of the men knocked out the under-pinning before the water had risen to sufficient height, so that the vessel careened and bumped heavily against the sides of the dock. The coal inside was shifted, so that she could not be righted in time to prevent the accident. Two of her crew fell overboard.

Mining Statistics.

From the report of Hon. H. C. Burchard, director of U. S. mints, now here, the following facts are learned regarding the production of precious metals in California in 1882. No figures for 1883 are yet obtainable. California holds second place in the ranks of gold and silver producing states. There is a diminution of $1,380,000 from the product of 1881. The total production is estimated at $17,[illegible],000, of which $840,000 was silver and the remainder gold.

The Samoan Hurricane.

In the hurricane at Apia, Samoa, six vessels riding in the harbor were totally wrecked as follows: Barks Selde and Brasilier, barkentine Venezuela, brig Sheet Anchor, schooner Mulitruna and the sloop Apia. The schooner Yavao was wrecked, but was temporarily repaired and set sail for this port. No particulars have yet been received. The losses are heavy. It is stated there was no great loss of life.

California Democracy.

The state central committee of the democracy of California held a session this afternoon. A committee of five was appointed to wait on Commissioners Carpenter and Humphreys and request them to appear before the committee with explanations. The committee adjourned until 8 o'clock this evening, when the commissioners are expected to appear.

Tour of Inspection.

[Special.]—Maj. T. J. Blakeny, superintendent of the life saving service of the Pacific coast, left this morning for Portland, on a tour of inspection of stations on the Columbia river. He recently suggested that a number of improvements be made on the Oregon and Washington territory coast, and his visit is in furtherance of that object.

An Act of Courtesy.

[Special.]—The State of California sailed this morning with full freight and passenger list. As she was heading for the stream she had to pass the French ram [illegible], and just as she was abreast of that vessel Captain Debney dipped his colors, a courtesy immediately acknowledged by the foreigner.

Returning to Portland.

[Special.]—Captain B. B. Tuttle of Portland, who has been superintendent of the railway mail service of this district, during the absence of Superintendent H. J. McKusick in Washington, returned to Portland this morning, resplendent with postal honors.

Will Visit Oregon.

The sugar commission, just returned from the Hawaiian islands, gathered all possible information upon the subject under investigation. The conclusion, if arrived at, will be kept secret. After visiting Oregon they will return east and submit reports to the proper authorities.

Merchants Left to Mourn.

King & Bigham, managers of an institution known as the Merchants' Collecting bureau, have disappeared from the city, taking with them some thousands of dollars fleeced from merchants in different parts of the Pacific coast, paid as subscriptions to a bureau established to collect claims of all kinds.

Returning with his Man.

[Special.]—A. B. Singleton left for Portland this morning, having the prisoner wanted there on a charge of shooting officer Barry. He was arrested in Mendocino county.

Shipping Intelligence.

Clearances, June 11.—British steamer [illegible] Castle, Smith, Nanaimo; Dunsmuir, Diggle & Co. Departures, June 11.—State of California, Debney, Astoria.

Suicide of a Soldier.

Emile Grosvenor, a Swiss, in the military service the past ten years, committed suicide at the Presidio barracks Sunday morning by shooting himself with a musket.

Truckee Raids the Roughs.

TRUCKEE, July 11.—For a long time past the opium fiends, vagrants, scamps and rough scuffs of this state and Nevada have flocked into Truckee and made it their headquarters. So great was the influx of these characters that business men determined to make an example so that this might be stopped, and accordingly made a raid to-day on the public streets. Twenty-two criminals were arrested and charged with vagrancy. More arrests are to follow. It is claimed that if this legal measure does not succeed "601" will be organized.

It is impossible to disguise the fact that the Vegetable Compound prepared under the personal direction of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, with the superior science and art of modern pharmacy, is the most successful medicine for female diseases known.

A PATHETIC SCENE.

An Indian Mother's Inconsolable Grief at the Death of Her Accomplished Daughter.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—[Special.]—The attention of an OREGONIAN correspondent was called to a painful scene this morning, in which the strength of maternal affection, even in the breast of untutored nature, shone at its brightest. The incident is productive of interest in reminiscences known to Oregonians, and dates back to the marriage of Donald McKay, who figured prominently with a band of Warm Spring Indians in the Modoc war. He wooed and wedded a dusky maiden, daughter of a chief of that tribe, and from all accounts lived happily together, later on rejoicing in the possession of a beautiful and precious little girl. The greatest care was taken in the education of the child. She early gave proof of her aptitude, and when McKay took his departure for the east or Europe with a band of Indians he took his wife and child with him, placing the latter in the best schools of Philadelphia and Boston.

FROM CHILDHOOD TO WOMANHOOD.

As the girl grew into womanhood she attracted the attention of her associates for kindness of disposition and winning ways and was more than once the recipient of tokens of affection from them. Recently Mrs. McKay left her husband in the east, where he was detained by business, and in company with her daughter, 16 years of age, started for the scenes of her childhood near Walla Walla. On the trip overland the young lady was attacked with pains in her lungs, but after an examination by a physician in Chicago, was pronounced in absolute good health. Arrived here they put up at the American Exchange, where the patient grew worse, and died this morning in the mother's arms. It is impossible to portray the anguish of the mother as she kept vigil over the body of her child, lying on a narrow cot, and clasping a crucifix which she held at the moment of death. Telegrams were sent to the husband in the east, but they have apparently not reached him.

THE MOTHER'S ANXIETY.

When your correspondent entered the room late in the afternoon the poor woman still clasped the dead girl, and seemed unconscious of the presence of strangers. No arrangements for the funeral had been made, but the almost distracted mother told them that at 8 o'clock A. M. to-morrow she would give an answer as to the arrangements. She was dressed in mourning, and throughout the day remained alone sitting or kneeling beside the dead.

John E. Shepherd, immigration commissioner for Oregon and Washington territory, hearing of the case, took the matter in hand and set about arranging details.

STATE DISPATCHES.

Death of Truman P. Powers.

ASTORIA, July 11.—[Special.]—Truman P. Powers, the well known Oregon pioneer, died to-day at the residence of his son-in-law, O. Leinenweber, in upper Astoria. Father Powers was respected and beloved by all who knew him. He was born in Vermont, in April, 1803. He went south when a young man, and was for many years engaged in steamboating on the Mississippi river. He left Mississippi for Oregon in 1846, and settled on the Clatsop plains in 1847, and has resided in this county ever since. He was twice elected a member of the legislature of the provisional government and was treasurer in the Oregon City mint. He and his late wife were charter members of the first Presbyterian church organized on the Pacific coast—the church on Clatsop plains. He was the first ordained Presbyterian elder on the Pacific coast and for nearly forty years he has been a faithful and consistent member and officebearer in the church of his choice.

Cleaning out More Roughs.

ASTORIA, July 11.—[Special.]—Several arrests were made last night by the regular police force, under the instructions of the city council, who are determined to enforce the ordinances to suppress gambling and bawdy houses in the city. George Hill, Russian Bob and others who were charged with one or the other of these offenses, were arrested, and gave bail to appear for trial to-morrow. Three more vags were started out of town this morning by order of the committee.

Astoria Perfectly Quiet.

ASTORIA, July 11.—[Special.]—Telegrams received here would imply that in your city and San Francisco rumors are afloat that continued lawlessness prevails here and that our city is threatened with incendiarism. Such rumors are perfectly groundless. On the contrary we never enjoyed a quieter or more satisfactory condition of things generally than exists at present, with every prospect of continuance.

IDAHO.

News Notes from Lewiston.

LEWISTON, July 11.—[Special.]—News is just received that two men stole twenty-eight horses from Cottonwood, Camas prairie, three days ago. The parties sold two horses here yesterday and left for parts unknown, probably Montana. The best of the horsemen are pursuing, and if the thieves are captured probably a necktie party will follow.

There was a slight shower this afternoon, but there is no sign of more. The weather is very sultry.

Four cases of diphtheria have appeared here and the schools are closed in consequence.

PRESIDENTIAL PROBABILITIES.

Some Early Talk About the Men who are Likely to Become Candidates.

WHAT SENATOR PUGH SAYS.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Senator Pugh is still of the opinion that Abram S. Hewitt is the man the democrats ought to nominate for president, while there are other democrats whom he, Mr. Pugh, would personally prefer. He says he is confident that the democrats must have New York state to win the national contest. No man is so available as Hewitt. In talking about John Sherman as a candidate for the republicans, he expressed the opinion that Sherman is the strongest man in the party judged by his great public service, but his lack of personal warmth made him an undesirable candidate. "The wires are down," said he, "between Sherman and the common masses." Pugh regards it as most inevitable that General Arthur will be the candidate of the republicans. "He is the strongest man in some ways, and he is the best president the country has had since the war."

SENATOR HARRIS' OPINIONS.

BOSTON, July 11.—Senator Harris, of Tennessee, had an interview here to-day with your correspondent. He thinks at the present time that ex-Senator McDonald, of Indiana is a formidable candidate for the democratic nomination for the presidency—so formidable that before the convention is to be held, [illegible] he has no doubt McDonald would receive the nomination. He said there might much be said about General Butler as a democratic candidate, but if there was he has no doubt heard it. On the republican side, he thinks President Arthur's prospects for the nomination had recently brightened, but if the republicans could carry Ohio this fall he thought Sherman would have greater prominence as presidential candidate than he has yet secured. He says the tariff question can hardly fail to be one of the prominent features of the presidential campaign.

IOWA GREENBACKERS.

Proceedings of the State Convention which Assembled Yesterday.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 11.—The greenback state convention was called to order at 10 o'clock by G. E. Gillette, chairman of the state central committee, who made a short speech, advocating prohibition and woman suffrage. Temporary organization was effected as follows: Chairman, W. S. Kenworthy; secretary, J. W. Muffler. A committee on resolutions was then elected. Motion was made to refer to the committee on resolutions offered in the convention, which after considerable discussion prevailed.

THE PLATFORM

The platform demands the abolition of all bank issues, and the substitution of legal tender treasury notes in lieu of bank currency, the volume to be regulated by congress; it favors the unrestricted coinage of gold and silver, opposes refunding the interest bearing government debt, and demands that it be paid as rapidly as possible. It demands a graduated income tax, declares that all men have earned a right to a portion of the soil, and demands a declaration of forfeiture of all unearned grants of land to corporations, all public lands to be held for actual settlers; it asks an amendment to the patent laws, to protect inventors and prevent the formation of monopolies; it favors civil service reform and the election of the president and vice president by direct vote; it favors low tariff and a revision of the present tariff in the interest of labor—not in the interest of monopolies; it demands the passage of laws regulating railroad and telegraph charges and the establishment of a postal telegraph system.

The resolutions declare that a river convention should be held in the Mississippi valley, not later than November, that representatives in congress should be petitioned to vote for an adequate appropriation for the improvement of western waterways, and that in the future selection of congressional candidates none but those heartily favoring the improvement should be selected.

ACCIDENTS

TRAIN COLLISION WITH FATAL RESULTS.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., July 11.—A Herald special says: "An excursion train from this city, containing about seventy-five members of Masonic lodges, while returning from Jamestown, collided with a freight train on the Buffalo and Southwestern at 2 A. M., two miles from Jamestown, instantly killing George Gates, conductor, M. D. Colby, brakeman of the freight train, and fatally injuring W. J. Morris, another brakeman. No one was hurt on the excursion. The engineers and firemen of both trains were saved by jumping. Both engines were smashed, and many freight cars. The force drove the excursion coach back twenty-five feet, but they kept on the track. Colby's limbs were crushed to a jelly. Gates, the conductor, was roasted in the ruins. The cause of the accident was a failure of the engineer of the freight train to obey orders."

Mrs. A. T. Stewart has donated $4,000,000 for the erection and support, in New York city, of the [illegible] in the United States. It will furnish [illegible] and non-sectarian. The building [illegible] is to be begun immediately, and [illegible] the largest and most collegiate edifice on this side of the Atlantic, if not in the world.

THE DAPHNE DISASTER.

LONDON, July 11.—A number of unsuccessful attempts have been made to raise the steamer Daphne. Eighty bodies thus far have been recovered. Inquiry has been instituted by the government to ascertain the cause of the accident, and has been begun under the direction of Sir Edward Reed. The builders of the Daphne testified that she was launched in the usual manner, and no fear has been entertained of danger. They said the deck on the starboard side had been removed to admit boiler plates. Planking and other material were stored on the other parts of the deck. She sank on her port side.

THE RETURNED PAUPERS.

LONDON, July 11.—The pauper emigrants who were returned to Ireland by order of the American authorities, on the steamers Furnessia and Spain, were landed at Queenstown yesterday. All accounts agreed in describing them as a wretched class of people. One family, consisting of man and wife and five children, were left lying on the wharf for three hours before the officials, who had not been advised of their coming, provided for their wants.

WILL MAKE NO STATEMENT.

LONDON, July 11.—Although the joint committee of the house of lords and commons rejected the Marquis of Lansdowne's report in favor of a tunnel under the English channel, a majority of the committee differed so much relative to their reasons for voting against it that they refrain from presenting any statement of their views to parliament.

Cassagnac said: "Jerome is making advances to the right persons, who might be ready to march behind him, as I may do, in another fortnight."

TUNIS, July 11.—The French recently imprisoned a Maltese because he was engaged in a fracas with an officer, and courtmartialed him. The arrest caused much ill feeling in the British colony, who demanded the release of the prisoner. The French refused to hand him over to the British consul, and the matter has been referred to the French and British governments.

TERRIBLE STORMS IN ONTARIO.

LONDON, Ont., July 11.—The river has risen here to an unprecedented height and the destruction of property is fearful. So far as known eight houses were carried away and three persons drowned. It is feared that many others perished, as a large number are missing. Barns have been carried away by the score and railroad travel cut off by washouts. The steamer Princess Louise floated down the stream and was carried away by an iron bridge. The water works' pumping house is in great danger, and is expected to go. Cattle, horses, etc., were drowned by the score.

LUCAN, Ont., July 11.—The severest storm of thunder and lightning known for years passed over this vicinity last night. Heavy damages were done by floods. Fences and bridges were swept away in every direction, and the railroads are flooded and impassable in several places.

IN THE COMMONS.

Another Suez Canal—Prospect of War between France and Great Britain—Etc.

LONDON, July 11.—In the commons this afternoon Childers, chancellor of the exchequer, stated that an agreement had been arrived at between the government and DeLesseps, providing for the construction of another Suez canal, and has been signed. The new canal would be completed at the end of the year 1888. England, he said, would lend the canal company £8,000,000 at 3¼ per cent. interest, and endeavor to obtain a fresh concession of land from the Egyptian government, and an extension of the original concession for ninety-nine years.

Gladstone, in reply to Sir Stafford Northcote, said that when the French occupied Tamatave, Madagascar, and proclaimed a state of siege, the British consul was suffering from serious illness, which political issues had aggravated. His secretary was arrested in the presence of Admiral Pierre. The French commander ordered the sick man to leave Tamatave within twenty four hours. The consul died seven hours after receiving the notice. Admiral Pierre also stopped communication between the British man-of-war Dryad, which was stationed there, and the shore, and her captain was only allowed to make a verbal protest against this proceeding. The flags of all foreign consuls were hauled down. Gladstone also stated that an English missionary named Shaw had been arrested at Tamatave, and remained in prison. The charge against him was not known. Inquiries had been made regarding its nature, but the only answer received was that the law must take its course. Gladstone, in conclusion, said: "In announcing these grave and painful occurrences I can now only say that we must await the receipt of further details. We must also await these communications from the French government which the case may require, which we have intimated we expect, and which it would be our duty to make under similar circumstances." This was followed by cheers.

Bradlaugh has written to the speaker of the house of commons, asking him why the act of presenting himself in the house to take his seat would be a disturbance of proceedings. He has also written to the sergeant-at-arms, warning him that he (Bradlaugh) will resort to an injunction if an attempt is made to prevent him from entering the house.

THE EFFECT OF GLADSTONE'S STATEMENTS.

LONDON, July 11.—The statement of Gladstone in the commons to-day produced a painful impression in the house. While the proceedings of the French are calculated to strain the present relations of England and France, it is not generally believed that a serious rupture will ensue. No reply to the demand upon the French government for explanations, made by the British foreign secretary, has been received up to the hour of going to press. It is generally expected, when all the facts are known, that the French government will express regret for the occurrences complained of, and will, as a mark of her disapproval, recall Admiral Pierre.

THE MEAT QUESTION.

The English Commons Strikes a Blow at the Importation of Beef.

LONDON, July 11.—Hugh C. Childers, chancellor of the exchequer, announced in the house of commons last evening that the government hoped that a provisional agreement respecting the second Suez canal would be reached last night.

Henry Chaplin, a conservative member of Lincolnshire, moved that, in view of the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease, the importation of live cattle should not be permitted from countries whose preventive laws or sanitary condition did not afford a reasonable security against the extension of the disease. He argued that the disease did not prevail in Scandinavia or in British North America, and those countries afforded a large supply. The motion, he said, would interfere with only 4 per cent. of the total meat supply. The loss of cattle by disease had in a few years amounted to [illegible] millions. One of the best means of insuring the meat supply was to encourage home production. Great Britain could not rely on America for meat, as the rapid increase of the latter's population was causing the exportable surplus to become less daily.

The member for Sheffield, Mundella, opposed the motion. He said one-sixth of the cattle and meat supplied to Great Britain was foreign. The adoption of the motion would, he contended, cause an enormous loss to the consumer.

Mr. J. G. Dodson, member for Scarborough, said the motion meant the prohibition of the importation of live stock. The government was unable to agree thereto; but he would assent to the appointment of a select committee to inquire into the question of foot and mouth disease. The [illegible] in favor of such a select committee was, however, negatived and Mr. Chaplin's motion was subsequently carried by a vote of 200 to 192, the members of the government voting in minority.

Tacoma Ledger.

Young [illegible] did what was right in the circumstances. It is the most utter folly to blame a man for carrying out the precepts of the Mosaic law, when modern legislation has virtually confessed itself powerless to exact the just penalty from open and undeniable guilt. It is as plain as anything can be that if the jury had done its duty, the hard necessity of requiring blood for blood would never have been imposed upon James Nutt.

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICANS.

Proceedings of the Convention Now in Session—The Platform.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 11.—But few persons other than delegates were in the opera house when the republican convention met. The convention was called to order at 12:15, by state chairman Cooper. On motion of Henry White General Lemuel Todd, of Cumberland, was elected temporary chairman. General Beaver moved that all resolutions be received without debate, and it was agreed to. At 1 o'clock recess was taken until three, in order to give the committee time to prepare their reports. The conference committee on the house and senate, and on congressional apportionments, this morning reported a failure to agree and were discharged. A new conference committee will be appointed to-morrow.

ADDRESS BY THE PERMANENT CHAIRMAN.

After recess John Cessna was made permanent chairman. He congratulated the convention on the spirit of harmony shown. He thought it was a forerunner of success in 1884, and believed that mistakes or blunders to-day would be political crimes. All stalwarts should prove themselves independents, while all independents should prove themselves stalwarts hereafter. He felt this to be a final gathering under one roof-tree, and advised any gentleman who came to the convention with stones in their pockets to break them and throw the pieces out of the window. He animadverted on recent vetoes of the administration and classed them as efforts to increase the cost of an extra session. As to the extra session he said let the responsibility rest where it belongs. He reverted to the tariff, and named it as the issue of the coming campaign.

THE PLATFORM.

We unqualifiedly approve and demand a continuance of that system of protection to home industry which has proved itself the basis of national independence, an incentive to industrial skill and development, and a guarantee of a

JUST AND ADEQUATE SCALE OF WAGES

for labor, and we denounce all attempts to reduce the rates of tariff below a level which will accomplish these objects; that any surplus in the public treasury, arising from redundant revenue, should, after paying the national debt, as conditions permit, be distributed from time to time to the several states upon a basis of population, to relieve them from the burdens of local taxation and to provide means for the education of their people; that as the depreciated trade dollar is largely in the hands of our laboring people and is a disturbing element in the business of the country, we declare it to be the duty of congress to adopt such legislation as will insure its full redemption and its conversion into other coin for circulation; that we protest against the practice of foreign governments in aiding or enforcing immigration of their pauper and criminal classes to this country, and we call upon the general government to take proper steps to prevent the same.

ARTHUR ENDORSED.

The republicans of Pennsylvania most heartily endorse the wise and conservative administration of Arthur, and believe his administration and policy has, under the circumstances, done much to secure the present prosperous condition of the country, and thus we recognize in him a faithful and worthy successor of our lamented martyr president, James A. Garfield.

We heartily approve of the provisions made by republicans in congress for giving patriot soldiers in the late war preference, according to qualifications, for positions under the government. Soldiers and sailors, and their widows and orphans have the first claim on the care, protection and gratitude of the American people.

We commend every effort to insure a thorough and correct civil service reform in all departments of national and state administration. We require that all offices bestowed within the party shall be upon the sole basis of fitness; that competent and faithful officers shall not be removed except for cause, and that the ascertained popular will shall be faithfully carried on by those holding office by favor of party.

A REFORM PLANK.

The republican party of Pennsylvania hereby pledges itself to secure the passage of such legislation as will tend to reform the government of the state and its municipalities, and more particularly pledges itself to provide for cities such reform charters as will correct existing abuses and promote a good and economical government; that the democratic party in the legislature of Pennsylvania is responsible for retarding legitimate and necessary business legislation, causing the calling of an extra session at the expense of more than $700,000, and preventing fair and just apportionment bills for congressional, legislative and judicial districts, and we hereby heartily commend the action of the republican senate on these measures.

WHEREAS, It is the sense of the convention that the freest and fullest expression of representative sentiment should be encouraged and sought in primary meetings, which are the fountain of party action and the source of popular rule, and that this object should be promoted by holding primaries for the election of delegates to the state convention throughout the state, as far as practicable on some convenient date not remote from the convention, therefore

Resolved, That the state committee be instructed to inquire into the expediency of fixing a uniform day throughout the state for holding primaries for the election of delegates to state conventions.

SCHUYLER COLFAX.

What he has to Say of Credit Mobilier Stock Alleged to have been Held by Himself.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 11.—[Special.]—In acknowledgment of a complimentary editorial in the Journal of this city, Hon. Schuyler Colfax writes the following private letter to the editor:

"The editorial to which my attention has been drawn, while saying correctly that I will not consent to return to public life, also expresses a confidence that the people believe in my integrity—confidence of which I have had so many gratifying proofs in my independent and enjoyable lecturing tours. As to credit mobilier stock, to which you allude, I can only repeat, I never had a share of it or a dollar of its dividends, it having been voluntarily abandoned, four years before the public scandal. Mr. Ames testified that he was holding the stock in trust for Gen. Garfield, W. D. Kelly and myself, which all three of us denied under oath, and that the three initial checks he produced, two for $329 and one for $1200, represented the dividends paid us on it; but he presented no receipts from either of us, had no endorsement by either of us in these initial checks, and no witness to their pretended payment, while we all swore that we never had seen them and never received the amounts named in the checks as dividends. The cashier of the bank swore, to his belief, that he paid these very initial checks to Ames himself and John I. Drew, a lawyer of Vermont, when he returned from Europe after congress adjourned; averred that he saw the $329 Ames drew on the check to 'S. C., or bearer,' paid by Ames to another man with whom he had been talking on other claims. As the date of Mr. Ames' memorandum has been settled, and nothing of the stock he said he was holding in trust for us has been found among his papers, it is as well as an axiomatic truth that there was no such stock and that however confused his memory might have been by the great excitement of the period the three initial checks, so different from all the rest, positively represented abandoned stock on which he had himself collected dividends. But having no fear of God's judgment upon my integrity and truthfulness in this matter, I only refer to it here thus briefly because of your highly appreciated editorial.

"SCHUYLER COLFAX."

CUBA.

FOR VIOLATING THE CUSTOMS DUTIES.

HAVANA, July 11.—The public sale of the American brig Nettie, for violation of the customs laws, was protested against by the United States consul, General Badeau. The United States government had urgently requested that the case be referred to Madrid, but the home government refused to interfere, and the whole matter was thrown upon the hands of Captain General Prendergast. He could only turn it over to the Cuban finance department for final decision. The captain of the Nettie having forfeited the right of appeal to the council of the administration, the acting director of general finances, since resigned, ordered the sale of the vessel. An appeal would only have delayed the proceedings.

THE BANDITS AGAIN AT WORK.

HAVANA, July 11.—A party of bandits under Aguero recently robbed every person from the highest to the lowest, on the plantation of Carey, near Guareiras. The physicians were not molested, having been robbed a few days previously of $400. A workman and a buyer, coming up at the time, had all their cash and all other valuables taken from them, while a Chinaman passing by had a horse taken from him.

MCMINNVILLE, July 11.—As I heard a little girl remark this morning, "they are unbuilding the old church." Its demolition is to give way for a new Baptist church, which is to be erected this summer. THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 12, 1883.

WHAT A COLLEGE COURSE SHOULD BE.

Charles Francis Adams, Jr., in the annual oration before the Harvard Phi Beta Kappa society, delivered a fortnight since, made a protest against the classical basis of college instruction as unfitted for "practical men." He insisted that much valuable time was wasted in the laborious acquirement of an imperfect knowledge of the Greek and Latin tongues, and argued that modern languages and modern science ought to be substituted for this "practically useless learning." Mr. Adams himself graduated from Harvard nearly thirty years ago, and it is singular and strange to find him going back to the old university with a protest against the kind of instruction she gave him.

Undoubtedly, as all men are not cast in the same mould, there should not be a rigid and unvarying course of instruction for all. The modern university has recognized this by introducing new departments of study, so that the classical course is not, as it was thirty years ago, the be-all and end-all of educational effort. The various departments of a thoroughly organized university now cover nearly the whole range of culture. A register before us gives this list, viz: "College of Letters, (classical course); College of Agriculture; College of Mechanics; College of Mining; College of Engineering; College of Chemistry; Literary Course; Course in Letters and Political Science; College of Law; College of Medicine; College of Dentistry; College of Pharmacy." Surely this list affords sufficient range for choice. It ought to relieve college instruction from the charge of exclusive classicism. Even in our Oregon colleges, though the professorships are limited in number and classes small, yet attention is paid to the demand for instruction apart from the classical course; and it is the aim and purpose of all of them to add new departments of science and letters as fast as it can be done.

What is called the classical course has, no doubt, in the past been overrated for the whole body of learners; and it may be conceded that the ancient languages have been invested with a traditional dignity which has made the majority of men shrink from fully testing the value of the culture which they are supposed to impart. But it would be unwise now to go to the other extreme. The very terms of science are unintelligible without some knowledge of their origin, which knowledge is obtainable only through the languages from which the terms have been formed or coined. We do not say that scientific study will be fruitless unless classical study goes with it, but we do say that without some knowledge of the origin of the nomenclature or terminology employed in the various branches of science, one will be forever lacking in that fine inward knowledge of his profession which gives it much of its charm and invests its details with pregnant meaning. For the specialist, therefore, these languages are not useless but highly important, and for general culture they are really indispensable since they lie at the door of nearly all the learning which opens to successive generations the history of the intellectual development of mankind. Without this background or foundation we should neither know our present position nor how we came to reach it. Of course all cannot be classical scholars; but it is a great mistake to suppose that no good is derived from classical study unless the student acquires sufficient knowledge to read the authors in the ancient tongues with ease, facility and critical skill. Few can do this; yet the knowledge obtained from even a brief introduction to classical learning widens the whole intellectual horizon, becomes a basis for a philosophical conception of history, culture and progress, and opens to the mind the idea of studying man through the history of his intellectual advancement along the lines marked by the great monuments of literature and art. The use of such a culture can be denied only by those who cannot appreciate its value. We should say that Mr. Adams, as a cultivated man, has forgotten the source of much of the culture that distinguishes him, as one who has climbed up the ladder of lowliness till, having reached the topmost round, he scorns the base degrees by which he did ascend. In fact, whether classical culture is valuable or not depends entirely on the soil of the mind which receives it; and when it is said that the basis of education should be scientific, not classical, the same remark will apply. Will botany, astronomy, chemistry or mechanics prove useful to the student? The answer depends on the structure of his mind, his intelligence, disposition and industry. The answer as to the utility of classical study in any given case depends on the same conditions.

BIG TALK.

In Dorsey's letter to Dickinson, recently published, there is prodigious assumption of virtue. His denunciations of those who have been prosecuting him are intended to be very terrible, since he is now thrice armed with the consciousness of his own innocence and the remarkable verdict of that 'typical' jury of the times. Loftily he says: "If I have ever written a letter which I am not willing to have published I do not know it. I presume that more than a hundred thousand letters of mine are in the hands of the people of this country, and I challenge the publication of every word I ever wrote. If I have ever said anything respecting any public matter that I would not be willing to see in print; if there is any record of mine anywhere, on any subject either oral or written, that any man in the world can say is unlawful, improper, or against public morals, I will hand down my right arm to see it." There was a time when Dorsey was far enough from holding this high language. When F. R. Wilcox of this city had his letters relating to star route operations in Oregon, Dorsey talked with bated breath and whispering humbleness. Having determined to sue Dorsey for "services," Wilcox sent the letters to his attorney in Denver to be used as evidence in the suit. It became known to Dorsey that the letters were there, and he saw the necessity of promptly employing an agent to settle with Wilcox's attorney; and so, by paying the claim, he got possession of the precious letters just in time to keep them out of the hands of the postmaster general, who was sharply on track of them. In view of this history the bravado that there is no record of his that he would not willingly see in print may be estimated at its true value. By keeping those letters out of print and out of the hands of the prosecution he kept himself out of the penitentiary.

The Ohio State Journal inquires: "Has it ever occurred to those who advocate the entire abandonment of the first day of the week as a day of rest from labor and consecration to the purposes of worship, that the rapidly growing laxity in regard to its observance is bearing terrible fruit in an increase of immorality and crime on that day? If it has not, we invite their attention to the records of the daily papers of the great cities issued on Monday morning of each week." It is perfectly true that more crimes are committed in the cities on Sunday than on any other day of the week. In some places the newspapers in their headlines call it "Murder Day." A day of idleness, of dissipation, of loafing about the saloons, of drinking and drunkenness, could not well produce other fruit than crime.

Gen. Humphreys, in his book, on the last campaigns of the war of the rebellion in Virginia, deals in facts and results rather than criticisms. But it is easy to gather from his narrative that he does not consider Grant a remarkable commander, save in tenacity of purpose and in the nerve necessary to contemplate the overwhelming sacrifice of life to accomplish a great purpose.

ONE OF THE MINOR ADVANTAGES.

The arrival in this city of a theatrical company from the east by way of the Northern Pacific, is a notable event in a small way. It has always been urged as an objection to residence in Portland, that we were so far distant from the great lines of travel as to be almost wholly debarred from the advantages of the best class of theatrical and other entertainments. Of the great number of dramatic and and musical artists, lecturers, etc., who have visited San Francisco during the past ten years, we have seen less than ten. It has been useless to talk to managers about the excellent taste and liberality of our people. The sea trip has in many cases been an insuperable objection; but as a rule we have not been able to secure the best talent, simply because the waste of time in going and coming has been too great in proportion to the length of the seasons here. Even when we have secured a really great artist, he has come so poorly supported that the performances, as a whole, here have been unsatisfactory. There have been, it is true, one or two exceptions to this rule. Quite independent of the new railroad conditions, we have of late been much better off than formerly in theatrical matters, owing to the growth of a "circuit" in this state and Washington territory. From this time on, however, we will stand a good chance of seeing all the great "stars." The cities of St. Paul, Minneapolis, Bismarck, Helena, Walla Walla and others will afford good business to companies traveling over the northern route, just as Omaha, Kansas City, Salt Lake, Virginia City and Sacramento have been profitable theatrical way stations on the old route. Actors coming one way will return the other, and we shall begin the direct line of their tour.

MANUFACTURES.

All experience will sustain the statement that, exclusively mining and agricultural countries are usually poor and dependent, that the production of the raw material from the fields, forest or mines is not the productive wealth that builds up great land cities, at least the kind that must greatly benefit the trading and wage-receiving classes. It is a kind of wealth which stands in pools, and does not spread out over the whole country and make the wilderness and solitary places glad, and the deserts rejoice and blossom as the rose. It does not thrill and electrify the social, educational and material interests of the country so thoroughly as to cause all parts to pulse with life and health. The reason is obvious. The raw, bulky, heavy material goes abroad at low rates, and returns as the product of skilled labor at high rates. The difference between the price of the two commodities is the loss sustained by the non-manufacturing producer, and no people can claim to be well on the way to the highest prosperity who are content to be vegetable dealers and marketers, the producers of raw material, wholly dependent upon the capricious and fluctuating prices of the foreign purchasers and manufacturers for the necessities and comforts of life. This is a hint as to the main cause of the slow development of wealth in our Pacific states. Money is not made, industry is not sustained, by turning out the crude product. Wealth results from working up the raw material into finished commodities. In this direction labor finds its most profitable employment; and until we are prepared to employ labor thus, and employ it extensively, the country will remain poor and comparatively unprogressive.

H. W. S.

THROUGH TO THE EAST.

Less than a hundred miles of the Northern Pacific remain to be built to complete rail connection between Portland and New York City. The gap in Montana between the western and eastern "fronts" is now less than a hundred miles and this is covered by rapid and comfortable stages in less than twenty-four hours. It now takes less time to go from this city to New York via the northern route than via San Francisco and the Central Pacific, while the stage ride is not to be compared in point of discomfort with the ocean trip down the coast. Already great numbers are going on the new route. Yesterday morning seven persons, four of them ladies, took train at Albina for New York, and it is announced almost every day that one or more persons have left from the other side bound for Portland. It is difficult to realize that the long-waited for "through connection with the east" is so nearly an accomplished fact; that the dream of forty years is so near a reality. After the 1st of September the trip across the continent will be made in six days; and during the time of transit so complete will be the traveling arrangements that one can enjoy all the comforts and luxuries to be found in the best hotels. All this will bring us in effect so near that "the east" will cease to be a far off and almost mysterious country.

From many parts of the state THE OREGONIAN has information that the people are taking deep interest in the discussion of the liquor question, and that the sentiment for prohibition has been enormously augmented by the conduct of the free whisky association of Portland. Some say that the election of a legislature pledged to submit a prohibitory amendment to the people will be a live issue in the election of next year, and that the rural counties will give nearly a solid vote for such amendment when they have an opportunity to vote upon it. No observer can doubt that the tendency now is very much that way. The insufferable arrogance of the lowest class of liquor sellers is begetting a determination to meet them in a way that they will like even less than the exaction of license fees. It is well known that THE OREGONIAN distrusts the efficacy of prohibitory laws. Nevertheless, in such a contest it would lend all the aid in its power to those who believed such a measure could be made effective. If anything could bring this contest upon the liquor sellers it would be their own insolent behavior, of which there has been an illustration in this city for several months past.

The condition of the road leading from the Stark street ferry to Lone Fir cemetery is simply outrageous. The bridge west of the East Portland public school building has been condemned and a long circuit over an ungraded hill is necessary to get around the gulch. Beyond this the road is dangerously rough. The planks of which it was made, originally, are broken in many places and in many others gone altogether, and the road-bed is worn into deep ruts. Teams are apt upon the least fright, to jump from the grade on either side, while passage under the best possible circumstances, is tedious and uncomfortable. The road supervisor, or the street superintendent or the management of the cemetery, or somebody else ought to see that the road is repaired at once.

There has just been ploughed up in an Indiana field an interesting souvenir of the famous "hard-cider" campaign of 1840 in that state, in the shape of one of the medals that were then worn by the supporters of Harrison. It bears on one side a representation of a log cabin, and a barrel of cider placed under an adjoining tree. On the reverse side are the inscriptions, "The People's Choice, the Hero of Tippecanoe—Major General W. H. Harrison, born February 9, 1773." It will be presented to the Hon. Richard W. Thompson, who is the only survivor of the Indiana electoral college of that year.

A beautiful illustrated pamphlet of one hundred pages, on the Yellowstone National Park, has just been published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. It contains a full description of the wonders of the park, and is an ample guide to tourists who may wish to visit it. A detailed account is presented of the various routes by which the wonderland may be reached, and routes within the park are also fully described. J. K. Gill & Co. have it. The author is Mr. Henry J. Winser, who will be remembered by many as having visited Oregon last year.

Gov. Stoneman it is reported is moving heaven and earth to make California certainly democratic next year. Some of his methods which the papers are exposing are small enough. For example, the legislature at its last session made an appropriation for the national guard of that state, on the basis of the force as then existing, but the democratic state government has mustered into the force a new regiment, having in it three hundred democratic voters.

Beyond all question Lappeus would have been superseded by this time as chief of police had he not been strengthened by the attacks made upon him by unscrupulous enemies. They have done for Lappeus what he could not have done for himself. The only thing the "long felt want" has yet accomplished is the keeping of Lappeus in by trying, in obedience to ring dictation, to get him out.

During the year 1882 the total amount of tax collected in Ohio for state purposes amounted to $1,335,608. Taxation of the liquor traffic, hitherto free, will now yield the state fully $1,500,000 a year.

Referring to a feature of the Oregon tax laws the San Francisco Alta says: "Taxation of mortgages is an attempt to gather grapes from thorns and figs from thistles."

THE WHISKY WAR.

The First Case Carried into the State Circuit Court.

HOW THE LIQUOR MEN CONDUCT THE FIGHT

All the Afternoon occupied in Examining Jurors—Attorney Drake suddenly attacked with Hemorrhage of the Lungs

Another skirmish was begun yesterday in the legal war which the city of Portland has for the past three months been trying to wage against the unlicensed dives which infest the city to the number of a hundred or more. The rattle of the legal weapons began so suddenly and unexpectedly as to surprise the court reporters almost as much as it will the reading public to see it in these columns this morning. In fact all good citizens had about come to the conclusion that there was no hope of getting through with the law's delays during the present century. Three months ago the keepers of these unlicensed liquor dens absolutely refused to obey the city ordinance regulating them in the direct interest of the peace and good order of the city. By so doing they not only became guilty of a misdemeanor but also deliberately robbed the city of a revenue amounting to over $12,000. For this they have not been in the least way punished but have each continued openly to violate the law 300 times each day, Sundays included, since the 1st of April of the present year. It is true that a feeble effort was made to bring these guilty ones to justice but of what avail? A low estimate shows that since these men became enemies to the laws of the city and therefore to the public peace each one of them has violated the license ordinance 25,000 times. A majority have been arrested one time but several have escaped altogether. They believe in fighting the city for it is money in their pockets. Instead of paying the city $400 a year for the privilege of making the army of criminals that fill the jails and penitentiaries as they are at present to overflowing, these patriots occasionally pay $1 to the whisky ring of which Col Joe Taylor, Casting Schneider and Dick Gerdes a member of the city council are the head men and it answers the same purpose.

Nearly every one is familiar with the endeavor of the city to punish these unlicensed liquor dealers. These endeavors did not fail because the city's lawyers were not diligent and energetic but because every possible legal quibble that could be employed to gain time and delay justice was dragged forward by the whisky men and thrown in the city's path rendering all their efforts weak and almost futile. Not one of these quibbles has stood before the law but demurrers and arguments and arguments and demurrers with the thousand and one legal points that have been lugged forth from the dusty shelves and into the courts to be read and investigated and found out that they have no bearing whatever upon the cases—why all this has accomplished just what the whisky men desired. For three months they have defied the city and obtained thereby $12,000 to continue the fight in the courts. Casting Schneider was twice arrested and disdaining to give bonds obtained his liberty on a writ of habeas corpus in the state circuit court. After many weeks during which there were more references to law books submitted to and examined by the court than in the great star route trial the writ was dismissed. The Casting gave bonds again and announced that he would carry it to the supreme court. There it rests. The other whisky men arrested were tried in the police court and convicted. They immediately appealed to the state circuit court. The city was the only party out and injured as the whisky men gave bonds for each other and went back to their gin-jerking. Tom gave bonds for Dick, Dick gave bonds for Harry and Harry gave bonds for Tom. It was a very pretty little game and the law said it was all right.

About a hundred of these appeal cases are now awaiting the convenience of the state circuit court. When this tribunal confirms the decree of the lower court in all these cases the people are then promised the spectacle of seeing each one in turn taken before the supreme court. At the end of this time in the year 1901 when it shall have been finally decided that the city of Portland has a right to regulate its crime-producing element, that element will be rich enough and strong enough to overawe and terrify respectable citizens as they now defy them.

If all this is not an actual possibility it might easily seem so to a stranger who should have watched the opening of the trial in the state circuit court yesterday of the first of these cases—that of The City of Portland vs Oliver Season. The entire afternoon was occupied and a jury was not even obtained.

The complaint against Season was first read alleging that he did upon the 15th of last April sell without a license in the city of Portland one gill of whisky. Frank V. Drake (Drake & Stephens) the attorneys for the whisky ring, at once interposed a demurrer to the complaint upon the ground that it did not state facts sufficient to show a cause of action. The court without hesitation overruled the demurrer and the trial began. Twelve jurymen were drawn from the regular panel and sworn. A grand examination was then begun by Counselor Drake as to the qualifications of these jurors. Upon the part of the city which was represented by the Hon Richard Williams the examination was somewhat different. He asked but one question: "Are you connected in any way with the liquor traffic?" Upon receiving a negative answer he expressed himself satisfied with the juror in each case.

Among other questions asked by Counselor Drake was the following: "Are you a member of any temperance organization or blue ribbon society pledged to the suppression of the liquor traffic?" In no case was an affirmative answer given.

Another question was also asked: "Have you any bias or prejudice against persons who are engaged in the liquor traffic?" This was objected to by Mr Williams who said that the question was similar to asking a juror in a murder trial if he had any bias or prejudice against persons who committed murder. Judge Stott sustained the objection after nearly an hour been occupied by the lawyers in wrangling.

With one exception every juror examined stated that just at present he had no business. Mr Williams said he didn't see why this jury should not be kept here at which gaily judge, jury and counsel all laughed. Nineteen of the several jurors had been excused and the regular panel was exhausted. S Beary was the last juror called, and after being accepted by Mr. Drake was examined by Mr Williams as follows:

What is your business Mr Beary?

Juror—Sort of general merchandise confectionery etc., in the Turn Halle building.

Mr Williams—Do you sell beer?

Juror—Yes I sell beer and things

Mr Williams—We'll excuse the juror

Frank Harrington, who was an interested spectator outside the bar of justice remarked sotto voce to a friend that he wanted it understood hereafter that he was engaged in a general merchandise business.

The regular panel was now exhausted and only the following named jurors ten in number had been obtained: John Epperly, Thomas Gordon, J M Gilman, Henry Wiener, J H Fisk, A M Cornelius, D E Buchanan, C Benitend, Rollin Woods and Samuel R Stott. The following persons were examined and excused by Mr Drake: G W Vollum, W H Cowle, Alonzo Gates and John M Scott. Mr Beary was the only juror not satisfactory to Mr Williams.

It now being after 5 o'clock and nearly time for adjournment Judge Stott asked: "How long will it take to try this case?"

Mr Williams—"About fifteen minutes."

Mr Drake—It will take some time on the part of the defense.

Mr Williams—I am willing to try it with the present jury.

Mr. Drake—I would prefer a full jury your honor.

Mr Williams—I hate to think of putting in all day to-morrow trying this case.

Mr. Drake—I don't think that will be necessary.

Mr Williams—It will be if we don't get along any faster than we have to-day. We have been here ever since half past 1 o'clock and haven't got a jury yet.

Mr Drake—"Your honor I don't feel like going on with this case to-night. I am not strong enough, and I don't know what is the matter with me. For the first time in my life I have vomited blood this afternoon and I don't understand it."

This announcement created quite a sensation in the court room and it was now remembered that about half an hour before Mr Drake had asked to be excused and had left the court room for several minutes. It was now learned that during that time he had suffered a severe hemorrhage but with an indomitable energy he had returned to the court room as soon as it was over.

It being necessary for two more jurors to be summoned Judge Stott adjourned court until this morning at 9 o'clock.

PROPOSED NEW ROAD TO SOUTH PORTLAND

Gerdes' Liquor Ordinance Lays Over Another Week—Joe Holladay Asks For a Double Track on First Street

The city council met in adjourned session last night Mayor Chapman in the chair and all members present. There was an unusually large attendance in the lobby.

COMMUNICATIONS

From C M Rohr and others remonstrating against the improvement of H street; referred to committee on streets.

From Fanny Wallace calling attention to the poor quality of rock used by contractors on the Fifteenth street improvement; same reference.

From the P H & P Company asking for the payment of warrants 7365 and 7366; referred to judiciary committee.

From E Wilsburgh & Co asking reduction in assessment; referred to committee on ways and means.

From John Cook and others special policemen at the camp grounds asking pay for each in the sum of $16 for services rendered; referred to committee on health and police.

From F M Arnold and others complaining of the nuisance of the Chinese theatre music and asking relief therefor; same reference.

From Joseph Holladay, president of the Portland Street Railway company asking franchise to build a double track on First street and to extend the double track to Woods street.

M B Rankin a resident of South Portland asked permission to address the council; granted. He said that the people of the south end proposed to build a street railroad themselves. They had petitioned and waited for years without avail and now they proposed to help themselves. At the next meeting of the council they would present a demand asking for a franchise. The streets had not yet been decided on but would be before the next meeting. He therefore asked that action on the Holladay petition be deferred until their petition was received.

Honeyman said that the council had granted a franchise to Holladay about a year ago from the present terminus of the road to Woods street at Joseph's treating the request with silent contempt. He was in favor of allowing Holladay to build a double track from Caruthers street to Woods street and then if he operates it to the satisfaction of the public it will be time enough to consider the feasibility of giving up to his benefit the best street in town.

The communication was referred to the committee on streets.

REPORTS.

From the committee on ways and means on the application of Jos. Wagner & Co asking for reduction of assessment recommended that claim not be allowed as it was filed too late; adopted.

From the city auditor reporting judges and clerks entitled to pay at the recent election; warrant ordered drawn.

From the police judge reporting witness and jurors' fees for the past quarter; referred to committee on health and police.

From the committee on streets and public property reporting back to the same viewers the viewers' report on the proposed unnamed street back of blocks I, J, K, L, and N streets; adopted.

From the city surveyor in the extensions of north Twenty-first, north Twentieth and E streets; referred to committee on streets and public property.

From the committee on health and police reporting back the nomination of Thos. Connell as chief of police without recommendation [no councilman had the nerve to move that the nomination be confirmed, so the matter was placed in silence].

The quarterly report of the treasurer and the semi-annual report of the auditor and clerk were read and referred to the committee of ways and means.

Instructing the city surveyor to survey an extension of B street from its present western terminus to a line opposite the east boundary of the city park.

GERDES WANTS TO KNOW, YOU KNOW

Under the head of miscellaneous business Gerdes rose to a point of inquiry. He desired information relative to the present liquor ordinance. There has been much controversy concerning the bond clause he said in the $400 a year and $5000 bond ordinance. Some claim that the bond runs for a year others that it runs only three months. There were two learned lawyers in the council and he would inquire of Judge Adams who was familiar with the ordinance his opinion concerning one point, viz: whether the $5000 bond covered a license for one year or for one quarter. In other words would a saloon keeper who filed bonds last April under the new law be entitled to a license for this quarter simply by the payment of $125 the license fee for one quarter.

Adams said that he had a decided opinion on the question but declined to express it for the reason that it was out of place and would probably have no weight. The city attorney was the proper person to speak in the matter and as he was present, he could likely enlighten Mr. Gerdes.

City Attorney Rice said that there were so many conflicting opinions that he did not want to give his views.

Question by the mayor to the city attorney—"Were the bonds executed last quarter for one year or for three months?"

City Attorney—They were all given for one year. A case involving this question came up to-day in the city auditor's office and was referred to me. A saloon keeper who gave bonds and took out license last April, came in with a new bond which would probably be approved and asked that the sureties on the old bond be released. I told them that this could not be done except by resolution of the council. The liquor bond is different from an official bond and the time having expired ... until ... of ...

Question by Adams—What period is specified in the bonds already executed?

City Auditor Carr—All the bonds cover one year. There is a blank in the bond and all were filled out to cover the period.

Question by Councilman Scoggin—Do I understand that the ordinance is silent on the question of the length of time which the bonds cover?

City Attorney—Yes. The bonds now in the custody of the city auditor are all right and saloon keepers who have furnished them need only to pay the license fee $125 at the beginning of each quarter to secure a license for the remaining three quarters.

State of the Order

In the second year of our organization there were fifteen new lodges and seventy-five members added ... In the third year there were ... lodges ... making $2,4?? ... In the fourth year fourteen new lodges and ... members increasing our income $1100 but this year we have but eight new lodges and 691 new members ...

The percentage of rejections by this officer has been much greater this year than last and taking into consideration the small number of lodges that ... a great variety has been exercised. For the accuracy of procedure and results ... now and I am satisfied that we will reap our reward in the years to come. We have had three expulsions during the year and for causes which seemed to be deserving.

During the past year I have issued 508 beneficiary certificates and at the same time 118 have been annulled, thirty have died and —— expelled, leaving a net gain of 358. Our membership was reported at 3201 in June 1882 but by time and ... I found ... as explained in another portion of my report. These amounted to forty six, which taken from the whole number leaves our membership at the present time 3507.

The following is the financial statement of the recorder:

General fund receipts $4497 30; total amount of warrants drawn $6262 47

SHERIFF'S SALES.

EAST PORTLAND July 11

Mr Sheriff give us a catalogue. I notice another sheriff's sale advertised. The sheriff's sales heretofore have been anything but satisfactory to a large portion of the business people who are desirous of bidding on goods offered at sheriff's sales. No decent person cares to push, crowd, shove or otherwise misbehave himself in order to ascertain what is being offered for sale. In the recent sale on Front street a large amount of merchandise was sold. I may safely say that several score of decent people turned away from the sale in disgust simply because no facilities were afforded for bidders to bid intelligently. The writer of this has attended several sheriff's sales in the past few months. This is about the style of the auctioneer: "What do I hear for this coffee? (Tip tip tip.)" He does not state whether he is offering a pound of coffee or a cargo and it is impossible for anybody but a rough to find out. Please give this a place in your paper. It may be the starter for something better. G

A MERE RUMOR

False Report that Capt. J. C. Ainsworth was closing out his Portland Interests

An advertising column of THE OREGONIAN yesterday contained an announcement that three large properties in different parts of the city were for sale and that application should be made to L. L. Hawkins. As Mr Hawkins is known to be the agent here of Capt. J. C. Ainsworth, who has just been in the city on a visit, it is assumed by many that the latter gentleman was closing out his great interests here. A rumor to this effect gained general currency among those not knowing that properties advertised as for sale did not belong to Capt. Ainsworth but to the Vaughn estate. An OREGONIAN reporter called on Mr Hawkins last evening who laughed at the rumor and said that he was merely offering for Mrs Dr Warren of New York, nee Miss Libbie Vaughn, a part of her Portland property. Capt Ainsworth he said had no thought of disposing of his interests here or any part of them. On the contrary it was his purpose to greatly increase his investments here. Mr Thompson for whom Mr Hawkins also acts as Portland agent, shares Capt Ainsworth's confidence in our city and is making considerable additions to his interests here.

In the course of a general conversation which followed, Mr Hawkins said that Capt Ainsworth felt great interest in the bridge question and had on various occasions during his recent visit expressed the opinion that those protesting against the proposed bridge below the city are doing a very foolish thing. As a steamboat man of great experience at this port he considers that the bridge will not be an obstruction and as a capitalist with large river front and various other interests in the city he is in favor of a bridge wherever the railroad company may desire to put it.

The very object and spirit of the law requires that they should be entirely free from any interference or supervision on the part of the local office in matters relating to their civil service duties. In this view of the case I think it entirely proper that the civil service commission should communicate directly with them on matters relating to their official [illegible] of the board. Of course it is to be presumed the commissioner will do nothing in this behalf that will interfere with the discipline of your office, as that would plainly be opposed to the spirit of the civil service law.

The Hill Investigation.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Bartlett was [illegible] examined before the Hill investigating committee. He said he made about a dozen visits to New York during the progress of work on the postoffice, but relied on the foreman for statements of extra work or material furnished. The foreman was dead and detailed accounts of those expenditures had been lost or destroyed. After the bills were made out he had filed time sheets and other papers, but had not seen them since.

Coleman expressed surprise that [illegible] should destroy their accounts, and the witness said that he should keep them hereafter, because he did not want a repetition of such a thing as this. Witness did not know anything of the steam heating branch of the business; that was in charge of Hayward; he believed Chas. P. Newton was superintendent of that work in the St. Louis postoffice building.

Question.—[illegible] was he paid by the government?

Answer.—I don't know that he was.

Question.—What does this voucher mean then?

Answer.—It meant that he was foreman of the work.

Question.—Didn't he act as [illegible] agent?

The latter replied instructing the attorney to dismiss the suit, as disposition of the money involved was subject to the same order as that disposed of under the Bliss-Crowley compromise. The large balance in question, though bonds stolen from the United States treasury will now be turned over to Ottman, who is a bar tender in New York.

Civil Service Examinations.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Dr. Gregory, civil service commissioner, and Chief Examiner Lyman have returned to Washington. Eaton and Thoman are expected this evening. Examinations for applicants for clerical positions in the executive departments will be held to-morrow and Friday. One hundred and ten applicants have been notified to appear each day at these examinations for the purpose of creating a list of eligible persons from which vacancies hereafter occurring in the executive departments are to be filled. About 250 applications for positions in the department for service at Washington will be placed on file by common applicants recently examined in various cities by members of the civil service commission, and the chief examiner will be notified by letter as to their standing as soon as papers in their respective cases can be examined and passed upon.

Crook and the Apaches.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Crook has come and gone as mysteriously in Washington as in Sonora, having succeeded in inducing the administration to adopt his views. There is pretty strong reason to believe that his persistence in having this policy adopted arises from the fact that the Apaches did not unconditionally surrender, but only agreed to go to San Carlos and that they still might be permitted to retain their arms. Secretary Teller has in the same also gained his point, for he has declined to be responsible for peace at San Carlos agency after 500 of the wildest Apaches are put there.

Senator Sherman on Ohio Politics.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—A Washington correspondent telegraphs that Senator Sherman says to a friend that the republicans of Ohio were never more heartily united nor in better trim to enter a political campaign than at present. He takes a very cheerful view of the prospect, and in private conversation expresses the belief that the republicans will elect their candidate for governor by a good majority and also secure the majority in the legislature.

Revising Rules of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Senator Sherman, who is a member of the committee to revise the rules of the Senate, says there will be no general meeting of the committee to consider the subject until October, when the sessions will probably be held in Washington. In the meantime Chairman Frye and one or two other members of the committee will [illegible] together and arrange the business for the full committee.

FUNERAL OF ARCHBISHOP PURCELL.

Imposing and Solemn Ceremonies Over the Dead Prelate at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, July 11.—The funeral of Archbishop Purcell was one of the most solemn services ever seen in the cathedral which he built. At 9 o'clock crowds were at the gates seeking admission by cards previously distributed. The body of the cathedral was [illegible] filled, and then others were admitted to stand inside the aisles. The center aisle was kept clear. A platform was provided for the press. The body of the dead archbishop lay as placed yesterday, in a casket at the head of the main aisle, with the face visible to those in front. The interior of the cathedral was heavily draped. Bishop Elder, coadjutor of the deceased archbishop, was the celebrant of the occasion; Rev. W. J. Hallen, assistant priest; Rev. J. C. Albrink, deacon; Rev. J. B. Murray, sub-deacon; acolytes, Rev. H. Ferneding, Rev. P. K. Dalton and Rev. P. A. Quinn; candle-bearer, W. H. Sibley; censer, Rev. Edward Hickey; masters of ceremonies, Rev. H. Muller, Rev. Thos. S. Byrne and Rev. J. F. Schonhoff; pall-bearers, Rev. J. G. O'Donoghue, Rev. B. Hinge, Rev. Charles Kalme, Rev. P. Kemp, Rev. M. O'Rourke and Rev. T. Doyle.

THE FUNERAL PROCESSION.

Fully 100 priests in white, in addition to the bishops and archbishops in purple, were on either side of the main altar, while the priests selected for the chanting occupied the main aisle. It was 9:20 when the organ proclaimed the beginning of the ceremonies. During the robing of the celebrant a basso solo was sung by P. J. Sullivan. Then followed the solemn ritual of pontifical requiem mass. The musical portion consisted of the introit by chanters; the kyrie by male chorus; [illegible] from Mozart's requiem by quartet and chorus; Domini Jesu by male chorus; [illegible] benedictus Agnus Dei by male chorus; communion by chanters; absolutions by chanters, and the bishop miserere by a male chorus, the whole under direction of J. A. Brockhoner. The music was of a high order of merit, and was rendered with deep feeling. The elevation of the host was marked by the most profound devotional attitude throughout the whole of the crowded cathedral.

THE EULOGY.

At 11 o'clock, mass being ended, Bishop Gilmore delivered the eulogy. He began by reference to the high office and high responsibilities of the priesthood. There were two orders in society—human and divine. Kings and magistrates represent the human, the priesthood represent the divine. This gives this scene its significance. The bishop gave a brief sketch of the life of deceased, dwelling with emphasis on the severe labor performed by the archbishop in the early years of his appointment to the diocese of Ohio, and showed what a mighty power the prelate had wielded in Catholic growth in the west. Fourteen priests of fifty years ago have increased to 482, the sixteen churches to 500, and the 60K Catholics to 500,000. Archbishop Purcell, it is true, was aided in producing these results, but to him belongs the honor of outlaying the great work.

Speaking of his financial failure, the speaker said it was commented on most widely, but not even the bitterest ever charged Archbishop Purcell with personal dishonesty or evil intent. Poor he came into the world, poor he lived, and poor he went out of the world. The pathway of his whole life was strewn with [illegible] for the poor. When passions have calmed, and an impartial history is written, [illegible] the shadow of reproach. He mistook the principles on which [illegible] but he was not guilty of wrong. He closed with a touching and eloquent tribute to the personal character and moral worth of the deceased, during which many were in tears.

THE PROCESSION.

The eulogy was followed by the solemn ceremony of absolution, escorted by [illegible] the archbishops present. It was then [illegible] [illegible] beginning. A procession then formed and marched through the streets, returning by the cathedral, where it was joined by the hearse containing the remains of the [illegible] depot to take the train to St. Martins.

CRIMINAL.

ATTEMPTED MURDER IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, July 11.—A deliberate attempt to murder J. Johnson, foreman of the stereotyping room of the Boston Herald was made to-night, about 11 o'clock. As Johnson was descending the stairs from the pressroom to William's street, he was assaulted by a person who [illegible] the [illegible] door. He was knocked down and pounded on the head with what is supposed to have been an iron bar. The weapon, however, has not been found. Johnson received four ghastly wounds on the head, and has been taken to the city hospital in a very low condition.

David Flannery, the night engineer in the pressroom, who acted strangely after the assault, has been arrested. Three newsboys, who are detained as witnesses, saw the affair from the top of the stairs and identified Flannery as the man who committed the deed. They state they saw Flannery hiding behind the door, lying in wait; that he struck Johnson as soon as he appeared; that the first blow knocked Johnson down and that other blows were inflicted while he lay prostrate. Flannery, they say, endeavored to close the door to shut himself and Johnson in, but the latter's foot was in the way. He then flung the door back and ran down into the pressroom. Johnson has identified Flannery at the police station as the man who struck him, but Flannery strenuously denies the charge. The victim knows no motive for the assault and never had any trouble with Flannery.

PARTICULARS OF THE POLK CITY MURDER.

DES MOINES, July 11.—Following are the particulars of the murder of E. L. Olingan at Polk City, in this county, late last night, so far as known: As Mr. Olingan, with his clerk, S. Hanger, were closing the store for the night, two men came to the door, saying, "Good evening, gentlemen," drawing revolvers at the same time, and without any warning, firing at Olingan, the ball taking effect below the collar bone. He died instantly. There is no clue to the perpetrators. Two strangers were seen a short time before it occurred by persons going home from the Odd Fellows' lodge, but it being quite dark, no accurate description can be given of the murderers. The whole country adjacent to Polk City was aroused, and squads of men on horseback spent the night in scouring the whole region. There is a report just now that the pursuers are close on the track of the murderers. Two horses that they had stolen, and ridden nearly to death, have been found abandoned. Two more horses were stolen there. It is generally supposed that this is the second chapter of a mysterious murder of Stubbs, mayor of the place last year, who was shot dead by masked men, who entered his bed room. Olingan and he were great friends, and Olingan has been taking an active part in ferreting out his murderers.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF A SISTER.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—A special from San Antonio, Texas, relates that fifteen days ago Sister Clemence, of the Cornelius Order of Divine Providence, mysteriously disappeared from New Braunfels, where the society has its educational institution. At first it was thought that she had gone to San Antonio or Austin, but inquiries failed to reveal her whereabouts. Yesterday Elias Pfeiffer of New Braunfels found a skeleton in the mountains eight miles away from that town. Examination proved it to be that of the missing sister. She was a German, and had been only one year in this country. It is suggested that she [illegible] home sick, but it is a rule of the society [illegible] alone on the streets or highways. Disclosures of abduction and murder are expected.

Idaho.

On Tuesday of last week at Boise City William Sues, a Mexican, shot and killed Mark Johnson. The latter was drunk at the time and provoked the quarrel.

Boise Statesman, July 3: The Oregon Short Line is now running passenger cars fifty-two miles this side of Shoshone, at a point a mile and a half this side of Glenn's ferry, or half a mile below the stage station on Little Canyon creek. The cars arrive at this point at 11 o'clock A. M., and depart from that point at 4 o'clock P. M. John Hailey, superintendent of the U. P. & O. stage line, came to this point on Monday with the first passenger train, where he now is, and the stable arrangements for stage passengers to arrive and depart on the arrival and departure of the trains. Passengers for the east will leave here at [illegible] o'clock A. M. and arrive at the cars at 4 o'clock P. M. sharp. The stages remain at the Canyon creek station until 11 o'clock the next day, and on arrival of the train leave for Boise City, making connections with the Rocky Bar and Wood river stages at Mountain Home, and arriving here at 5 o'clock A. M. next day. This arrangement will only last two weeks, when the track will be laid to Jackson farm on Rattlesnake, eight miles below Mountain Home. A depot will be built at this point to accommodate the Rocky Bar travel from the north and the Bruneau travel from the south. The next objective point will be opposite Boise City, where Mr. H. will go, superintendent of the O. S. L. road, says they expect to reach about the 1st of September. The stages to Shoshone have all been drawn off. The next freight terminus that may be the railroad will be the Jackson or Rattlesnake depot.

A Big Thing at Helena.

Helena Herald, July 3.

The Northern Pacific was represented in yesterday's celebration by [illegible] pinnacle, chief of the Yellowstone and Rocky Mountain division of the road, by General Agent Fulton and Land Agent Stone, a few whom were seen in the imposing procession who [illegible] at the depot the magnificent incoming train from the east. They [illegible] thousands to the railroad, and beheld with pride the grandest spectacle of the day—the departure from Helena of the Northern Pacific's first bullion train, carrying a million pounds of our silver product. The train was composed of thirty-six new box cars, labeled with large canvas cards inscribed "N. P. R. R.—1,000,000 pounds Helena bullion, from Helena, M. T." Two ponderous engines, gaily decorated with bunting, drew the long line of richly freighted cars, the reports [illegible] by the [illegible] the sounding of locomotive whistles, the piping of fire engines, the music of bands and the shouts of the people. It was a sight no one of the thousands present will ever forget, and a fitting finale to the railroad part of the celebration.

No Fear of Incendiarism.

Astorian, Wednesday.

Rumors to Astoria were received by this city last night from San Francisco, to the effect that the impression prevailed in insurance circles there that Astoria feared incendiarism, and if that was the case to cancel all policies. The parties who received the dispatches telegraphed back that the impression was unfounded, which is the case. Perhaps it is as well to state here that the vigilance committee which was organized here was organized with the intent to punish thieves who had endeavored to profit by an accidental fire. At no time has Astoria feared incendiarism, nor is there now the slightest reason to apprehend any danger from incendiarism. That impression, if it exists, is an erroneous one. Apart from incidental risk in common with other cities, there is no reason for insurance companies to be apprehensive in regard to policies on Astoria property, nor is there any city on the coast where life and property is safer to-day than in this community.

The Last Spike.

Deer Lodge New Northwest, July 6.

Although an apparently semi-official announcement is made that the ceremony of laying the last rail and driving the last spike on the Northern Pacific railroad will take place at the western portal of the Mullan tunnel, Vice President Oakes and Chief Engineer Anderson have not been advised thereof and it is the opinion of both that the actual meeting point of the track layers from east and west will be between the mouth of Little Blackfoot and New Chicago. This, however, will not prevent a formal "driving of the last spike" at the Mullan tunnel. General Anderson believes the track over the Mullan tunnel will be laid in two weeks, by which time track layers from the west will also have passed the three heavy bridges this side of Missoula, when the ties and iron will go down on the last hundred miles with lightning speed. The old saying that "the end is not yet" is now revised to read that "both ends are drawing nigh."

Astoria Commended.

San Francisco Chronicle.

The citizens of Astoria adopted the right course in their treatment of the lawless element in that city. A [illegible] is never justifiable except in grave emergencies, such as occurred in San Francisco in early days and in [illegible] last year, but we fancy that any one recalling the demand for the looting of property by the Astoria mob during the recent fire would place the Oregon city in the same category. Certainly the temper of the citizens seems to have been effective, and the lesson taught will be a wholesome one to the thieves and [illegible] who tried to raid the town.

[illegible] proved its efficiency by a test of [illegible] years' constant use. Try it.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, July 11.

Grocery houses report a light call from valley points, but the eastern section and country up to Montana is buying largely. Our firms are preparing for completion of the Northern Pacific, and it is safe to say will be able to successfully compete with other distributing points on the coast as well as meet prices offered by many eastern points. With a good crop east of the mountains and a fair one in the valley business will gradually grow. Merchants are complaining of the mortgage tax law, now in force in this state, as very liable to work a hardship upon them; but the greater load will fall upon farmers whose debts are mortgaged to foreign capitalists. This capital has announced its intention of seeking other and more favorable states. With the calling in of this money when due, farmers will be obliged to secure new loans at a higher rate of interest or suffer a foreclosure. Either of these farmers can poorly afford at this time. Wool brought a low price and wheat promises no better. Thus it is that a movement to call a special meeting of the legislature has been organized. The act was passed against the votes of representatives from the moneyed centers, and its evil effects are almost altogether due to the votes of those whom it burdens. Whether the governor will call a special session without an assurance that a repeal will be had is still a question. It is proposed to address a circular to all members of the house and senate, asking their views. Local bankers seem willing to let the act remain in force, not only that it will be a pecuniary benefit to them, but will prove a valuable lesson to the class that are continually seeking to harass capital.

Seattle capital, assisted to some extent by Yakima and Kittitass merchants, is now building a wagon road from Seattle over the mountains to Ellensburg in order that the Sound may enjoy the trade of the Yakima section. Freight from Portland for the same point goes up the Columbia to Priest Rapids, thence by an almost impassable road to its destination. Were a good road built from Priest Rapids to Ellensburg, freight charges would be very materially cheapened from Portland and our merchants enabled to compete with Seattle for this trade. Such a road can be built for $3000 and this sum should be immediately raised here.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Audacious Robbery.

SALT LAKE, Utah, July 10.—This afternoon at 5 o'clock two men entered Zion's saving bank, on Main street, and while one engaged the attention of Mr. Schattler, the cashier, the other struck him over the head with an iron bar, felling him to the floor. The robbers then gathered all the money in sight, and ran. The noise attracted the attention of parties in the same building, who rushed in as the robbers ran out. They found the cashier bleeding profusely, but his wounds are pronounced not dangerous. The cashier identifies one of the robbers as D with Rich, and the other he says he knows by sight. Neither of them have been captured, but officers are in pursuit. The amount of money stolen is not yet known, but it is supposed it will not exceed $100.

Later.—The robbery this afternoon was committed by a son of the apostle Rich and a son of Elias Smith, the probate judge of Salt Lake county. Smith was arrested to-night, but Rich is still at large.

Construction Company Formed.

GALVESTON, July 10—A News Laredo special authentically stated that a new construction company has been formed to complete the extension of the International railway to the city of Mexico. Jay Gould, jr., will be at the head of the organization, with R. S. Hayes as general manager. The money furnished is principally from an English syndicate. Work on the contract to grade and build the road from Laredo to Victoria, the capital of the State of Tamaulipas, distant from Laredo 300 miles, is ordered to be commenced on the 14th inst. In the change, Gen Dodge, former president, has been left out.

A strange man appeared and claimed to have a warrant for her. He dragged her out of the house and forced her into a carriage despite her protests, and the carriage was driven rapidly away. It is supposed the man and girl's mother have taken her to Minneapolis. The girl is 15, and worked in a dry goods store in this city.

Altercation With Fatal Results.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—The Times-Democrat's Vienna, La., special says: "Fred. Price yesterday killed a negro named Ford, near Longstreet. Price engaged Ford's son to work for a year. The boy became dissatisfied and went home. Price went after him. An altercation ensued between Price and Ford, when the boy seized a shotgun and fired, filling Price's face and neck with small shot. Price being unable to free himself from the grasp of Ford drew his pistol and fired twice, killing Ford instantly."

NORTHERN PACIFIC RATES.

The Chicago "Tribune" Characterizes them as Exorbitant.

Chicago, July 11.—The Tribune says: "There can hardly fail to be some disappointment in the public mind as to the rates which it is announced the Northern Pacific will charge travelers over its lines to the Pacific coast. In a recent interview in St. Paul General Traffic Manager Muir stated to our reporter that the rate for first-class passengers from St. Paul to Portland would be $100, and that for intermediate points and for second class, proportionate figures would be made. The distance between the two terminal points of the Northern Pacific being 1916 miles, this charge of $100 is at the rate of more than five and one half cents per mile. It must be remembered that the charge for sleeping car accommodations will be extra and heavy, and the cost of meals and incidentals will make the whole cost quite as much as that of a trip twice as long across the ocean to Europe. At those prices, after a man of moderate means had gone with his family of, say, one wife, which is a full allowance this side of Salt Lake, and four children, and had enjoyed the seductive pleasures of sleeping cars and dining cars, and parlor reclining chairs, he would find himself out of pocket of about all he could save in a year. The traffic manager of the Northern Pacific seeks to make the charges which he announced look reasonable by comparison between them and those of the Union and Central Pacific roads.

AN UNFORTUNATE COMPARISON.

This is an unfortunate comparison. These roads are managed by men who have made themselves and the corporations under which they have cloaked their rapacity, odious by extortion and disregard of the people's rights and interests. The slight difference which he shows to exist in favor of the charges of the Northern Pacific, is by no means large enough. It is worse yet for Mr. Muir's comparison that information has just reached us that the railroad commissioner of California, at last frightened into action by symptoms of righteous popular wrath with their complacent tolerance of the outrages of the Stanford-Crocker gang, have reduced the rates of the Central and Southern Pacific to 4 cents a mile on all their system except where they cross mountains and desert, and on one branch. This leaves the Northern Pacific rates 39 per cent. higher than those of the most unconscionable monopoly among the American railroads, and that too in the face of the fact of which the Northern Pacific are never tired of reminding us, that they have not a mile of desert, and that their mountain passes are thousands of feet lower than those of the other trans-continental lines.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Kiernan's News: At the Oregon and Transcontinental directors' next meeting to-morrow the report of the financial condition of the company will be presented, and after being passed upon by the board it will be given to the public. Only one director besides Villard is known to have seen the figures. The report is said to make a very favorable showing. Oakes, of the Northern Pacific, arrived in New York to-day. The gap on the main line is down to 166 miles. Work during the last week was mainly on sidings.

COLORADO TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION.

Chicago, July 11.—The Colorado Traffic Association has been in session in this city yesterday and to-day, considering the re-enactment of the pool on business west of the Missouri river, as the existing pool expires the 31st inst. The members are unable to reach an understanding on the percentages, as J. F. Tucker, who was appointed arbitrator to fix percentages under the existing pool, is now in the east and will not return for some time. Adjournment was taken till August 6, and meantime the existing pool will remain in force.

ALL THE STOCK SOLD.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES.

LANGTRY AND GEBHARDT AND THEIR CAR.

Long Branch, July 11.—[Special.]—Gebhardt stays at the Central hotel, while Langtry lodges and eats in the private car. He obtained the refusal of the cottage formerly owned by Lester Wallack, called "The Hut," for himself and the Lily, but decided not to take it. It is said they will visit several resorts in this car, remaining a few days in each place. The car stands off the track at the Central depot, and is constantly guarded by two colored men, the porter and the cook. Streams of villagers visited the spot to-day in hopes of catching a glimpse of the occupants.

A WORLD OF GOOD.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters, as it is not a whisky drink. [illegible] a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

THE MEXICO CHARTERED FOR SOUND ROUTE.

Perfectly Satisfied with the Northwest.

San Francisco, July 11.—[Special.]—The freight and passenger movement to Oregon and Washington territory has, very recently, received an impetus to the already large movement with which the spring opened. Even the usual falling off at this time of the year of immigrants from the east and the west is fully made up by the number of foreign immigrants arriving here en route to the northwest. A significant feature of the movement is, that lately quite a number of settlers have returned here on their way to former locations to bring out their families with them, and locate permanently in Oregon and Washington territory. The effect of this feature upon the immigration association of this state is that it has been used as an argument against the above sections by either purposely misrepresenting the true case of the return of immigrants, or from a lack of knowledge of the cause. A number of these returning immigrants who were spoken to by an Oregonian correspondent, stated that they had found what they were looking for, and were on their way to bring out their families, and that no inducements could be offered them to forego their locations north.

The Mexico Chartered for the Sound Route.

San Francisco, July 11.—[Special.]—Arrangements have been finally completed by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company for the charter of the steamship Mexico, which is to be placed on the sound route from this city. The rapid developments of trade which have made an increase to the regular trips of the Dakota and Idaho necessary have grown more urgent, and besides resulting in forced runs have given little time at either end. By the new schedule, which goes into effect on the 30th, departures will be made every five days, leaving this city at 10 A. M., instead of 2 P. M. Measures, commencing Friday next sailing from this port will be as follows: Elder, 15th; Dakota, 20th. Capt. Thomas Huntington, master of the Mexico, remains in command. The vessel was built here by Dickie Bros., and is a new and excellent sea boat.

Return of a Traveled and Cultured Indian.

[Special.]—Winnie, son of the chief of the Warm Spring Indians, arrived from the east on Monday, and left for Portland this morning. He speaks in glowing terms of his trip through Europe, and judging from his conversation he is an excellent example of what the noble red man might become under more favorable auspices. He speaks German intelligently, and from the general subjects upon which he conversed he seems to be imbued with thoroughly democratic ideas. During his stay in Washington he met Chief Moses and understood from him that the offer made by the government for the reservation which it is proposed to open to settlers was not satisfactory. Moses also stated that he disliked the prospect of being removed to the Indian territory. Asked what the chief would do in regard to the unsatisfactory state of affairs, Winnie answered by giving your correspondent a highly philosophical speech on the instability of all things human, saying that it was impossible to foretell the to-morrow.

Will Summon the Railroad Commissioners.

The democratic state central committee met this evening. The object was to consider the course pursued by Railroad Commissioners Carpenter and Humphreys, and the desirability of requesting the governor to call a special session to impeach the action of the two commissioners. Notwithstanding the fact that reporters were excluded, sufficient of the proceedings became known that the substance of debate was whether the commissioners would be reached by an impeachment process and whether the adoption of such a course leading to such result would be for the best interests of the democratic party. After much argument for and against it was decided to summon Carpenter and Humphreys to appear before a committee of five, appointed to examine and investigate their acts, said committee to report the result of the investigation to the state central committee.

Steamer Notes.

The steamer Sardonyx has undergone thorough repairing, and is refitted with splendid state room accommodations. Passengers leave for Victoria, Nanaimo and New Westminster Saturday next.

Captain W. E. Moore, who has been in command of the revenue steamer W. E. Chandler, on the Atlantic coast, has received orders from Washington to proceed to Port Townsend, to take command of the revenue cutter Oliver Wolcott, now on the Puget Sound station.

The Cramps of Philadelphia, will in a few days commence to lay the keel of an iron steamship to replace the ill-fated Tacoma, for the Central Pacific railroad.

Farrar-Bivens.

[Special.]—L. C. Farrar of Portland and Miss Lulu Bivens were married on Monday by Rev. Joseph Garrigan, at the residence of Mrs. A. Figner of this city. The ceremony which was private, was witnessed by the parents and other relatives of the contracting parties. The parlors were profusely decorated with flowers and presents, numerous and costly. The newly married couple left for Portland this morning, where they will reside. A number of beautiful floral offerings, one of which was an elegant marriage bell, were taken on board.

Freight for the Northwest.

[Special.]—Eastern freights have increased in the past two weeks, particularly so in tobacco, dry goods, machinery and farming implements, the latter imports forming the chief articles for shipment north. Iron pipe is also shipped in large quantities, both to Portland and to the Sound. The bark Davy Crockett from New York commenced discharging heavy pipe to-day for the Seattle water works. The contract for large pipes for the Portland Water Company was recently awarded to a foundry here, which recently commenced delivery.

Accident to the Sardonyx.

[Special.]—The steamer Sardonyx completed her repairs this afternoon, and while preparing to leave the dry dock, sustained additional damages. One of the men knocked out the under-pinning before the water had risen to a sufficient height, so that the vessel careened and bumped heavily against the side of the dock. The coal inside was shifted, so that she could not be righted in time to prevent the accident. Two of her crew fell overboard.

Mining Statistics.

From the report of Hon. H. C. Burchard, director of the Mint, now here, the following facts are learned regarding the production of precious metals in California in 1882. No figures for 1883 are yet obtainable. California holds second place in the ranks of gold and silver producing states. There is a diminution of $1,300,000 from the product of 1881. The total production is estimated at $17,146,000, of which $445,000 was silver and the remainder gold.

The Samoan Hurricane.

In the hurricane at Apia, Samoa, six vessels riding in the harbor were totally wrecked as follows: Barks Salida and Brazilier, barkentine Venezuela, brig Sheet Anchor, schooner Mid France, and the sloop Apia. The schooner Vavau was wrecked, but was temporarily repaired and set sail for this port. No particulars have yet been received. The losses are heavy. It is stated there was no great loss of life.

California Democracy.

The state central committee of the democracy of California held a session this afternoon. A committee of five was appointed to wait on Commissioners Carpenter and Humphreys and request them to appear before the committee with explanations. The committee adjourned until 8 o'clock this evening, when the commissioners are expected to appear.

Tour of Inspection.

[Special.]—Maj. T. J. Blakeny, superintendent of the life saving service of the Pacific coast, left this morning for Portland, on a tour of inspection of stations on the Columbia river. He recently suggested that a number of improvements be made on the Oregon and Washington territory coast, and his visit is in furtherance of this object.

An Act of Courtesy.

[Special.]—The State of California sailed this morning with full freight and passenger list. As she was heading for the stream she had to pass the French [illegible], and just as she was abreast of that vessel Captain Debney dipped his colors, a courtesy immediately acknowledged by the foreigner.

Returning to Portland.

[Special.]—Captain E. B. Tuttle of Portland, who has been superintendent of the railway mail service of this district, during the absence of Superintendent E. J. McKusick in Washington, returned to Portland this morning, resplendent with postal honors.

Will Visit Oregon.

The sugar commission, just returned from the Hawaiian islands, gathered all possible information upon the subject under investigation. The conclusion, if arrived at, will be kept secret. After visiting Oregon they will return east and submit reports to the proper authorities.

Merchants Left to Mourn.

King & Bigham, managers of an institution known as the Merchants' Collecting Bureau, have disappeared from the city, taking with them some thousands of dollars secured from merchants in different parts of the Pacific coast, paid as subscriptions to a bureau established to collect claims of all kinds.

Returning with his Man.

[Special.]—A. B. Singleton left for Portland this morning, having the prisoner wanted there on a charge of shooting officer Barry. He was arrested in Mendocino county.

Shipping Intelligence.

Cleared, June 11—British steamer Bernard Castle, Seattle; Nanaimo, Dunsmuir, Diggle & Co. Departures, June 11—State of California, Debney, Astoria.

Suicide of a Soldier.

Emilio Gruraver, a Swiss, in the military service the past ten years, committed suicide at the Presidio barracks Sunday morning by shooting himself with a musket.

Tramps Raids the Engine.

Truckee, July 11.—For a long time past the opium fiends, vagrants, tramps and rough scruffs of this state and Nevada have flocked into Truckee and made it their headquarters. So great has the influx of these characters been that business men determined to make an example so that this might be stopped, and accordingly made a raid to-day on the public streets. Twenty-two criminals were arrested and charged with vagrancy. More arrests are to follow. It is claimed that if this equal measure does not succeed [illegible] will be organized.

It is impossible to disguise the fact that the Vegetable Compound, prepared under the personal direction of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, with the superior [illegible] female disease known.

A PATHETIC SCENE.

San Francisco, June 11.—[Special.]—The attention of an Oregonian correspondent was called to a painful scene this morning, in which the strength of maternal affection, even in the breast of untutored nature, shone at its brightest. The incident is productive of interesting reminiscences known to Oregonians, and dates back to the marriage of Donald McKay, who figured prominently with a band of Warm Spring Indians in the Modoc war. He wooed and wedded a dusky maiden daughter of a chief of his tribe, and from all accounts lived happily together, later on rejoicing in the possession of a beautiful and precious little girl. The greatest care was taken in the education of the child. She early gave proofs of her aptitude, and when McKay took his departure for the east or Europe with a band of Indians, he took his wife and child with him, placing the latter in the best schools of Philadelphia and Boston.

FROM CHILDHOOD TO WOMANHOOD.

As the girl grew into womanhood she attracted the attention of her associates for kindness of disposition and winning ways, and was more than once the recipient of tokens of affection from them. Recently Mrs. McKay left her husband in the east, where he was detained by business, and in company with her daughter, 16 years of age, started for the scenes of her childhood near Walla Walla. On the trip over land the young lady was attacked with pains in her lungs, but after an examination by a physician in Chicago, was pronounced in absolute good health. Arrived here they put up at the American Exchange, where the patient grew worse and died this morning in the mother's arms. It is impossible to portray the anguish of the mother as she kept vigil over the body of her child, lying on a narrow cot, and clasping a crucifix which she held at the moment of death. Telegrams were sent to the husband in the east, but they have apparently not reached him.

THE MOTHER'S GRIEF.

When your correspondent entered the room late in the afternoon the poor woman still clasped the dead girl, and seemed unconscious of the presence of strangers. No arrangements for the funeral had been made, but the almost distracted mother told them that at 8 o'clock A. M. to-morrow she would give an answer as to the interment. She was dressed in mourning, and throughout the day remained alone sitting or kneeling beside the dead. John E. Shepherd, immigration commissioner for Oregon and Washington territory, hearing of the case, took the matter in hand and set about arranging details.

STATE DISPATCHES.

Death of Truman P. Powers.

Astoria, July 11.—[Special.]—Truman P. Powers, the well known Oregon pioneer, died to-day at the residence of his son-in-law, O. Leinenweber, in upper Astoria. Father Powers was respected and beloved by all who knew him. He was born in Vermont, in April, 1803. He went south when a young man, and was for many years engaged in steamboating on the Mississippi river. He left Mississippi for Oregon in 1846, and settled on the Clatsop plains in 1847, and has resided in this county ever since. He was twice elected a member of the legislature of the provisional government and was treasurer in the Oregon City mint. He and his late wife were charter members of the first Presbyterian church organized on the Pacific coast—the church on Clatsop plains. He was the first ordained Presbyterian elder on the Pacific coast, and for nearly forty years he has been a faithful and consistent member and officebearer in the church of his choice.

Cleaning out More Roughs.

oria, July 11.—[Special.]—Several arrests were made last night by the regular police force, under the instructions of the city council, who are determined to enforce the ordinances to suppress gambling and bawdy houses in the city. George Hill, Irish Bob and others who were charged with one or the other of these offenses were arrested, and gave bail to appear for trial to-morrow. Three or four vagrants were arrested out of town this morning by order of the committee.

Astoria Perfectly Quiet.

Astoria, July 11.—[Special.]—Telegrams received here would imply that in your city and San Francisco rumors are afloat that continued lawlessness prevails here and that our city is threatened with incendiarism. Such rumors are perfectly groundless. On the contrary we never enjoyed a quieter or more satisfactory condition of things generally than exists at present, with every prospect of continuance.

IDAHO.

News Notes from Lewiston.

Lewiston, July 11.—[Special.]—News is just received that two men stole twenty-eight horses from Cottonwood, Camas prairie, three days ago. The parties sold two horses here yesterday and left for parts unknown, probably Montana. The rest of the horses will be pursued, and if the thieves are captured probably a necktie party will follow.

There was a slight shower this afternoon, but there is no sign of more. The weather is very sultry.

Four cases of diphtheria have appeared here and the schools are closed in consequence.

PRESIDENTIAL PROBABILITIES.

Some Early Talk About the Men who are Likely to Become Candidates.

WHAT SENATOR PUGH SAYS.

Washington, July 11.—[Special.]—Senator Pugh is still of the opinion that Abram S. Hewitt is the man the democrats ought to nominate for president, while there are other democrats whom he (Mr. Pugh) would personally prefer. He says he is confident that the democrats must have New York state to win the national contest. No man is so available as Hewitt. In talking about John Sherman as a candidate for the republicans, he expressed the opinion that Sherman is the strongest man in the party, judged by his great public service, but his lack of personal warmth made him an undesirable candidate. "The wires are down," said he, "between Sherman and the common masses." Pugh regards it as most inevitable that General Arthur will be the candidate of the republicans. "He is the strongest man in some ways, and he is the best president the country has had since the war."

SENATOR HARRIS' OPINIONS.

Boston, July 11.—Senator Harris, of Tennessee, had an interview here to-day with your correspondent. He thinks at the present time that ex-Senator McDonald, of Indiana, is a formidable candidate for the democratic nomination for the presidency,—so formidable that were the convention to be held immediately he has no doubt McDonald would receive the nomination. He said there might much be said about General Butler as a democratic candidate, but if there was he has no doubt heard it. On the republican side, he thinks President Arthur's prospects for the nomination had recently brightened, but if the republicans could carry Ohio this fall he thought Sherman would have greater prominence as presidential candidate than he has yet secured. He says the tariff question can hardly fail to be one of the prominent features of the presidential campaign.

IOWA GREENBACKERS.

Proceedings of the State Convention which Assembled Yesterday.

Des Moines, Ia., July 11.—The greenback state convention was called to order at 10 o'clock by G. H. Gillette, chairman of the state central committee, who made a short speech, advocating prohibition and woman suffrage. Temporary organization was effected as follows: Chairman, W. S. Kenwar; secretary, J. W. Muller. A committee on resolutions was then elected. Motion was made to refer to the committee on resolutions offered in the convention, which after considerable discussion prevailed.

THE PLATFORM.

The platform demands the abolition of all bank issues, and the substitution of legal tender treasury notes in lieu of bank currency, the volume to be regulated by congress; it favors the unrestricted coinage of gold and silver, opposes refunding the interest bearing government debt, and demand that it be paid as rapidly as possible; it demands a graduated income tax, declares that all men have earned a right to a portion of the soil, and demands a declaration of forfeiture of all unearned grants of land to corporations, all public lands to be held for actual settlers; it asks an amendment to the patent laws, to protect inventors and prevent the formation of monopolies; it favors civil service reform and the election of the president and vice president by direct vote; it favors low tariff and a revision of the present tariff in the interest of labor—not in the interest of monopolies; it demands the passage of laws regulating railroad and telegraph charges and the establishment of a postal telegraph system.

The resolutions declare that a river convention should be held in the Mississippi valley, not later than November, that representatives in congress should be petitioned to vote for an adequate appropriation for the improvement of western waterways, and that in the future selection of congressional candidates none but those heartily favoring the movement should be selected.

ACCIDENTS.

TRAIN COLLISION WITH FATAL RESULTS.

Titusville, Pa., July 11.—A [illegible] special says: "An excursion train from [illegible] containing about seventy-five members of [illegible], while returning from Jamestown, collided with a freight train on the Buffalo and Southwestern at 9 A. M., two miles from Jamestown, instantly killing George Gates, conductor, M. D. Colby, brakeman of the freight train, and fatally injuring W. J. Morris, another brakeman. No one was hurt on the excursion. The engineers and firemen of both trains were saved by jumping. Both engines were smashed, and many freight cars. The force drove the excursion coaches back twenty-five feet, but they kept on the track. Colby's limbs were crushed to a jelly. Gates, the conductor, was roasted in the ruins. The cause of the accident was a failure of the engineer of the freight train to obey orders."

Mrs. A. T. Stewart has donated $4,000,000 for the erection and support, in New York city, of the largest college in the United States. It will furnish free tuition, and be non-sectarian. The building, work upon which is to be begun immediately, will be the largest and finest [illegible] on this side of the Atlantic, if not in the world.

THE DAPHNE DISASTER.

London, July 11.—A number of unsuccessful attempts have been made to raise the steamer Daphne. Eighty bodies thus far have been recovered. Inquiry has been instituted by the government to ascertain the cause of the accident, and has been begun under the direction of Sir Edward Reed. The builders of the Daphne testified that she was launched in the usual manner, and no fear has been entertained of danger. They said the deck on the starboard side had been removed to admit boiler plates. Planking and other material were stored in the other parts of the deck. She sank on her port side.

THE RETURNED PAUPERS.

London, July 11.—The pauper emigrants who were returned to Ireland by order of the American authorities, on the steamers Furnessia and Spain, were landed at Queenstown yesterday. All accounts agreed in describing them as a wretched class of people. One family, consisting of man and wife and five children, were left lying on the wharf for three hours before the officials, who had not been advised of their coming, provided for their wants.

WILL MAKE NO STATEMENT.

London, July 11.—Although the joint committee of the houses of lords and commons rejected the Marquis of Lansdowne's report in favor of a tunnel under the English channel, a majority of the committee differed so much relative to their reasons for voting against it that they refrain from presenting any statement of their views to parliament.

London, Ont., July 11.—The river has risen here to an unprecedented height and the destruction of property is fearful. So far as known eight houses were carried away and three persons drowned. Cattle, horses, etc., were drowned by the score.

IN THE COMMONS.

London, July 11.—In the commons this afternoon Childers, chancellor of the exchequer, stated that an agreement had been arrived at between the government and DeLesseps, providing for the construction of another Suez canal, and had been signed. The new canal would be completed at the end of the year 1888. England, he said, would lend the canal company £8,000,000 at 3¼ per cent. interest, and endeavor to obtain a fresh concession of land from the Egyptian government, and an extension of the original concession for ninety-nine years.

Gladstone, in reply to Sir Stafford Northcote, said that when the French occupied Tamatave, Madagascar, and proclaimed a state of siege, the British consul was suffering from serious illness, which political issues had aggravated. His secretary was arrested in the presence of Admiral Pierre. The French commander ordered the sick man to leave Tamatave within twenty-four hours. The consul died seven hours after receiving the notice. Admiral Pierre also stopped communication between the British man-of-war Dryad, which was stationed there, and the shore, and her captain was only allowed to make a verbal protest against this proceeding. The flags of all foreign consuls were hauled down. Gladstone also stated that an English missionary named Shaw had been arrested at Tamatave, and remains in prison. The charge against him was not known. Inquiries had been made regarding its nature, but the only answer received was that the law must take its course. Gladstone, in conclusion, said: "In announcing these grave and painful occurrences I can now only say that we must await the receipt of further details. We must, also, await those communications from the French government which the case may require, which we have intimated we expect, and which it would be our duty to make under similar circumstances." This was followed by cheers.

Bradlaugh has written to the speaker of the house of commons asking him why the act of presenting himself in the house to take his seat would be a disturbance of proceedings. He has also written to the sergeant-at-arms, warning him that he (Bradlaugh) will resort to an injunction if an attempt is made to prevent him from entering the house.

THE EFFECT OF GLADSTONE'S STATEMENTS.

London, July 11.—The statement of Gladstone in the commons to-day produced a painful impression in the the house. While the proceedings of the French are calculated to strain the present relations of England and France, it is not generally believed that a serious rupture will ensue. No reply to the demand upon the French government for explanations, made by the British foreign secretary, has been received up to the hour of adjournment. It is generally expected, when all the facts are known, that the French government will express regret for the occurrences complained of, and will, as a mark of her disapproval, recall Admiral Pierre.

THE MEAT QUESTION.

The English Commons Strikes a Blow at the Importation of Beef.

London, July 12.—Hugh C. Childers, chancellor of the exchequer, announced in the house of commons last evening that the government hoped that a provisional agreement respecting the second Suez canal would be reached last night.

Henry Chaplin, a conservative member of Lincolnshire, moved that, in view of the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease, the importation of live cattle should not be permitted from countries whose preventive laws or sanitary condition did not afford a reasonable security against the extension of the disease. He argued that the disease did not exist in Scandinavia or in British North America, and those countries afforded a large supply. The motion, he said, would interfere with only 1 per cent. of the total meat supply. The loss of cattle by disease had in a few years amounted to millions. One of the best means of insuring the meat supply was to encourage home production. Great Britain could not rely on America for meat as the rapid increase of the latter's population was causing the exportable surplus to become less daily.

The member for Sheffield, Mundella, opposed the motion. He said one-sixth of the cattle and meat supplied to Great Britain was foreign. The adoption of the motion would, he contended, cause an enormous loss to the consumer.

Mr. J. G. Dodson, member for Scarborough, said the motion meant the prohibition of the importation of live stock. The government was unable to agree thereto, but he would assent to the appointment of a select committee to inquire into the question of foot and mouth disease. The amendment in favor of such a select committee was, however, negatived and Mr. Chaplin's motion was subsequently carried by a vote of 200 to [illegible], the members of the government voting in minority.

Tacoma Ledger.

Young Nutt did what was right in the circumstances. It is the most utter folly to blame a man for satisfying not the precepts of the Mosaic law, when modern legislation has virtually confessed itself powerless to exact the just penalty from open and undeniable guilt. It is as plain as anything can be that if the jury had done its duty the hard necessity of requiring blood for blood would never have been imposed upon James Nutt.

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICANS.

Proceedings of the Convention in Session—The Platform.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 11.—A few more persons other than delegates were present when the republican convention met. The convention was called to order at 12:15 by state chairman Cooper. On motion of Henry White, Gen. [illegible] Cumberland, was elected temporary chairman. General Beaver moved that all resolutions be referred without debate, and it was agreed to, and at 1 o'clock recess was taken until three, to give the committee time to prepare their reports. The conference committee on the house and senate and congressional apportionments, during the morning, reported a failure to agree and were discharged. A new conference committee will be appointed to-morrow.

ADDRESS BY THE PERMANENT CHAIRMAN.

After recess John Cessna was made permanent chairman. He congratulated the convention on the spirit of harmony shown. He thought it was a forerunner of success in 1884. He believed that mistakes or blunders to-day would be political crimes. All stalwarts should prove themselves independents, while all independents should prove themselves stalwarts hereafter. He felt this to be a final gathering under one roof-tree, and advised any gentleman who came to the convention with stakes in their pockets to break them and throw the pieces out of the window. He animadverted on recent [illegible] of the administration and [illegible] the cost of an extra session. As to an extra session he said let the responsibility rest where it belongs. He referred to the tariff, and [illegible] as the issue of the coming campaign.

THE PLATFORM.

We unqualifiedly approve and demand a continuance of that system of protection to home industry which has proved itself the bulwark of national independence, an incentive to industrial skill and development, and a guarantee of a

for labor, and we denounce all attempts to reduce the rates of tariff below a level which will accomplish these objects; that any surplus in the public treasury, arising from redundant revenue, should, after paying the national debt, as conditions permit, be distributed from time to time to the several states upon a basis of population, to relieve them from the burdens of local taxation and to provide means for the education of their people; that as the depreciated trade dollar is largely in the hands of our laboring people and is a disturbing element in the business of the country, we declare it to be the duty of congress to adopt such legislation as will insure its full redemption and its conversion into other coin for circulation; that we protest against the practice of foreign governments in aiding or encouraging the immigration of their paupers and criminal classes to this country, and we call upon the general government to take proper steps to prevent the same.

ARTHUR ENDORSED.

The republicans of Pennsylvania most heartily endorse the wise and conservative administration of Arthur, and believe his administration and policy has under the circumstances, done much to secure the present prosperous condition of the country, and that we recognize in him a faithful and worthy supporter of our lamented martyr president, James A. Garfield.

We heartily approve of the provisions made by republicans in congress for giving patriot soldiers in the late war preference, according to qualifications, for positions under the government. Soldiers and sailors, and their widows and orphans, have the first claim on the care, protection and gratitude of the American people.

We commend every effort to inaugurate a thorough and correct civil service reform in all departments of national and state administration. We require that all offices bestowed within the party shall be upon the sole basis of fitness, that competent and faithful officers shall not be removed except for cause, and that the essential [illegible] shall be faithfully carried out by those holding office by favor of party.

A SPECIAL PLEDGE.

The republican party of Pennsylvania hereby pledges itself to secure the passage of such legislation as will tend to reform the government of the state and its municipalities, and more particularly pledges itself to provide for strict and uniform charters, as will correct existing abuses and promote a good and economical government; that the democratic party in the legislature of Pennsylvania is responsible for retarding legitimate and necessary business legislation, causing the calling of an extra session at the expense of more than $200,000, and preventing fair and just apportionment bills on congressional, legislative and judicial districts, and we hereby heartily commend the action of the republican senate on these measures.

Whereas, It is the sense of the convention that the freest and fullest expression of the popular sentiment should be encouraged and sought in primary meetings, which are the foundation of party action and the source of popular rule, and that this object should be promoted by holding primaries for the selection of delegates to state conventions throughout the state, as far as practicable, on some convenient date and uniform from the convention therefore

Resolved, That the state committee be instructed to inquire into the expediency of fixing a uniform day throughout the state for holding primaries for the election of delegates to state conventions.

SCHUYLER COLFAX.

What he has to Say of Credit Mobilier Stock Alleged to have been Held by Himself.

Lockport, N. Y., July 11.—[Special.]—In acknowledgment of a eulogistic editorial in the Journal of this city, Hon. Schuyler Colfax wrote the following private letter to the editor:

"The editorial to which my attention has been drawn while saying correctly that I will not consent to return to public life, also expresses a confidence that the people believe in my integrity, a confidence of which I have had so many gratifying proofs in my independent and enjoyable lecture tours. As to credit mobilier stock, to which you allude, I can only repeat, I never had a farthing of it or a dollar of its dividends, it having been voluntarily abandoned four years before the public scandal. Mr. Ames testified that he was holding the stock in trust for Jas. Garfield, W. D. Kelley and myself, which all three of us denied under oath, and that the three certified checks he produced, two for $329 and one for $1200, represented the dividends paid us on it; but he presented no receipts from either of us, and no endorsement by either of us in those forgotten checks, and no witness to their pretended payments, while we all swore that we never had seen them, and never received the amounts named in the checks as dividends. The cashier of the bank swore, to his belief, that he paid these very identical checks to Ames himself and John I. Drew, a lawyer of Vermont, when he returned from Europe after congress adjourned; swore that he saw the $200 Ames drew on the check to S. C., or bearer, paid by Ames to another man with whom he had been talking on other claims. As the date of Mr. Ames' memorandum has been settled, and as none of the stock as said he was holding in trust for us has been found among his papers, it is as evident as anything can be that there was no such stock, and that however confused his memory might have been by the great excitement of the period the three, in the papers, so different from all the rest, positively represented abandoned stock on which he had himself collected dividends. But having no fear of God's judgment upon my integrity and truthfulness in this matter, I only refer to it here thus briefly because of your highly appreciated editorial.

CUBA.

FOR VIOLATING THE CUSTOMS DUTIES.

Havana, July 11.—The [illegible] of the American brig Nettie, for violation of the customs laws, was protested against by the United States consul General Badeau. The United States government had urgently requested that the case be referred to Madrid, but the home government refused to interfere, and the whole matter was thrown upon the hands of Captain General Prendergast. He could only turn it over to the Cuban Admiralty department or Real Audiencia. The captain of the Nettie having forfeited the right of appeal to the council of the administration, the acting director of general finances, since resigned, ordered the sale of the vessel. An appeal would only have delayed the proceedings.

THE BANDIT AGUERO AT WORK.

Havana, July 11.—A party of bandits under Aguero recently robbed every person, from the highest to the lowest, on the plantation of Garey, near Guanajay. The physicians were unmolested, having been robbed a few days previously, [illegible]. A storekeeper and a buyer, coming up at this time, lost all their cash and all other valuables taken from them, while a Chinaman passing by had his horse taken from him.

YAMHILL NEWS.

[OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

McMinnville, Ogn., July 11.

As I heard a little girl remark this morning, they are now building the old school. The demolition is to give way for a new Baptist church, which is to be erected this summer. At a meeting of the city council here last night, they refused to remove the streets, which is causing considerable comment among the citizens of the town. Some farmers say that the time is past for rain to do good to the present crops, therefore we may look for a very short harvest, as a great deal of the grain in this vicinity was re-sown and late.

WHAT A COLLEGE COURSE SHOULD BE.

Charles Francis Adams, Jr., in the annual oration before the Harvard Phi Beta Kappa society, delivered a fortnight since, made a protest against the classical basis of college instruction as unsuited for "practical men." He insisted that much valuable time was wasted in the laborious acquirement of an "imperfect knowledge of the Greek and Latin tongues, and argued that modern languages and modern science ought to be substituted for this "practically useless learning." Mr. Adams himself graduated from Harvard nearly thirty years ago, and it is singular and strange to find him going back to the old university with a protest against the kind of instruction it gave him.

Undoubtedly, as all men are not cast in the same mould, there should not be a rigid and unvarying course of instruction for all. The modern university has recognized this by introducing new departments of study; so that the classical course is not, as it was thirty years ago, the be-all and end-all of educational effort. The various departments of a thoroughly organized university now cover nearly the whole range of culture. A register before us gives this list, viz: "College of Letters, (classical course); College of Agriculture; College of Mechanics; College of Mining; College of Engineering; College of Chemistry; Literary Course; Course in Letters and Political Science; College of Law; College of Medicine; College of Dentistry; College of Pharmacy." Surely this list affords sufficient range for choice. It ought to redeem college instruction from the charge of exclusive classicism. Even in our Oregon colleges, though the professorships are limited in number and classes small, yet attention is paid to the demand for instruction apart from the classical course; and it is the aim and purpose of all of them to add new departments of science and letters as fast as it can be done.

What is called the classical course has, no doubt, in the past been overrated for the whole body of learners; and it may be conceded that the ancient languages have been invested with a traditional dignity which has made the majority of men shrink from fully testing the value of the culture which they are supposed to impart. But it would be unwise now to go to the other extreme. The very terms of science are unintelligible without some knowledge of their origin, which knowledge is obtainable only through the languages from which the terms have been formed or coined. We do not say that scientific study will be fruitless unless classical study goes with it, but we do say that without some knowledge of the origin of the nomenclature or terminology employed in the various branches of science, one will be forever lacking in that fine inward knowledge of his profession which gives it much of its charm and invests its details with pregnant meaning. For the specialist, therefore, these languages are not useless but highly important and for general culture they are really indispensable since they lie at the door of nearly all the learning which opens to successive generations the history of the intellectual development of mankind. Without this background or foundation we should neither know our present position nor how we came to reach it. Of course all cannot be classical scholars; but it is a great mistake to suppose that no good is derived from classical study unless the student acquires sufficient knowledge to read the authors in the ancient tongues with ease, facility and critical skill. Few can do this; yet the knowledge obtained from even a brief introduction to classical learning widens the whole intellectual horizon, becomes a basis for a philosophical conception of history, culture and progress, and opens to the mind the idea of studying man through the history of his intellectual advancement along the lines marked by the great monuments of literature and art. The use of such a culture can be denied only by those who cannot appreciate its value. We should say that Mr. Adams, as a cultivated man, has forgotten the source of much of the culture that distinguishes him, as one who has climbed up the ladder of lowliness till, having reached the topmost round, he "scorns the base degrees by which he did ascend." In fact, whether classical culture is valuable or not depends entirely on the soil of the mind which receives it; and when it is said that the basis of education should be scientific, not classical, the same remark will apply. Will botany, astronomy, chemistry or mechanics prove useful to the student? The answer depends on the structure of his mind, his intelligence, disposition and industry. The answer as to the utility of classical study in any given case depends on the same conditions.

BIG TALK.

In Dorsey's letter to Dickinson, recently published, there is prodigious assumption of virtue. His denunciations of those who have been prosecuting him are intended to be very terrible, since he is now fairly armed with the consciousness of his own innocence and the remarkable verdict of that typical jury of the times. Loftily he says: "If I have ever written a letter which I am not willing to have published I do not know it. I presume that more than a hundred thousand letters of mine are in the hands of the people of this country, and I challenge the publication of every word I ever wrote. If I have ever said anything respecting any public matter that I would not be willing to see in print; if there is any record of mine anywhere, on any subject, either oral or written, that any man in the world can say is unlawful, improper, or against public morals, I will hand down my right arm to see it." There was a time when Dorsey was far enough from holding this high language. When F. P. Wilcox of this city had his letters relating to star route operations in Oregon, Dorsey talked with bated breath and whispering humbleness. Having determined to sue Dorsey for "services," Wilcox sent the letters to his attorney in Denver to be used as evidence in the suit. It became known to Dorsey that the letters were there, and he saw the necessity of promptly employing an agent to act with Wilcox's attorney; and so, by paying the claim, he got possession of the precious letters just in time to keep them out of the hands of the government people, who were sharply on track of them. In view of this history the bravado that there is no record of his that he would not willingly see in print may be estimated at its true value. By keeping those letters out of print and out of the hands of the prosecution he kept himself out of the penitentiary.

The Ohio State Journal inquires: "Has it ever occurred to those who advocate the entire abandonment of the first day of the week as a day of rest from labor and consecration to the purposes of worship, that the rapidly growing laxity in regard to its observance is bearing terrible fruit in an increase of immorality and crime on that day? If it has not, we invite their attention to the records of the daily papers of the great cities issued on Monday morning of each week." It is perfectly true that more crimes are committed in the cities on Sunday than on any other day of the week. In some places the newspapers in their local news call it "Murder Day." A day of idleness, of dissipation, of loafing about the saloons, of drinking and drunkenness, could not well produce other fruit than crime.

Gen. Humphreys, in his book on the last campaign of the war of the rebellion in Virginia, [illegible] facts and results rather than criticism. [illegible] it is easy to gather from his narrative that he does not consider Grant a remarkable commander, [illegible] his tenacity of purpose and [illegible] to contemplate the overwhelming sacrifice of life to accomplish a great purpose.

ONE OF THE MINOR ADVANTAGES.

The arrival in this city of a theatrical company from the east by way of the Northern Pacific, is a notable event in a small way. It has always been urged as an objection to residence in Portland, that we were so far distant from the great lines of travel as to be almost wholly debarred from the advantages of the best class of theatrical and other entertainments. Of the great number of dramatic and musical artists, lecturers, etc., who have visited San Francisco during the past ten years, we have seen less than ten. It has been useless to talk to managers about the excellent taste and liberality of our people. The sea trip has in many cases been an insuperable objection; but as a rule we have not been able to secure the best talent, simply because the waste of time in going and coming has been too great in proportion to the length of the seasons here. Even when we have secured a really great artist, he has come so poorly supported that the performances, as a whole, here have been unsatisfactory. There have been, it is true, one or two exceptions to this rule. Quite independent of the new railroad conditions, we have of late been much better off than formerly in theatrical matters, owing to the growth of a "circuit" in this state and Washington territory. From this time on, however, we will stand a good chance of seeing all the great "stars." The cities of St. Paul, Minneapolis, Bismarck, Helena, Walla Walla and others will afford good business to companies traveling over the northern route, just as Omaha, Kansas City, Salt Lake, Virginia City and Sacramento have been profitable theatrical way stations on the old route. Actors coming one way will return the other, and we shall be on the direct line of their tour.

MANUFACTURES.

All experience will sustain the statement that exclusively mining and agricultural countries are usually poor and dependent, that the production of the raw material from the fields, forest or mines is not the productive wealth that builds up towns and cities, of at least the kind that most greatly benefits the trading and wage-receiving classes. It is a kind of wealth which stands in pools, and does not spread out over the whole country and make the wilderness and solitary places glad, and the deserts rejoice and blossom as the rose. It does not thrill and electrify the social, educational and material interests of the country so thoroughly as to cause all parts to pulse with life and health. The reason is obvious. The raw, bulky, heavy material goes abroad at low rates, and returns as the product of skilled labor, at high rates. The difference between the price of the two commodities is the loss sustained by the non-manufacturing producer, and no people can claim to be well on the way to the highest prosperity who are content to be vegetable dealers and marketers, the producers of raw material, wholly dependent upon the capricious and fluctuating prices of the foreign purchasers and manufacturers for the necessities and comforts of life. This is a hint as to the main cause of the slow development of wealth in our Pacific states. Money is not made, industry is not sustained, by turning out the crude product. Wealth results from working up the raw material into finished commodities. In this direction labor finds its most profitable employment; and until we are prepared to employ labor thus, and employ it extensively, the country will remain poor and comparatively unprogressive.

THROUGH TO THE EAST.

Less than a hundred miles of the Northern Pacific remain to be built to complete rail connection between Portland and New York City. The gap in Montana between the western and eastern "fronts" is now less than a hundred miles and this is covered by rapid and comfortable stages in less than twenty-four hours. It now takes less time to go from this city to New York via the northern route than via San Francisco and the Central Pacific, while the stage ride is not to be compared in point of discomfort with the ocean trip down the coast. Already great numbers are going on the new route. Yesterday morning seven persons, four of them ladies, took train at Albina for New York, and it is announced almost every day that one or more persons have left from the other side bound for Portland. It is difficult to realize that the long-waited for "through connection with the east" is so nearly an accomplished fact; that the dream of forty years is so near a reality. After the 1st of September the trip across the continent will be made in six days; and during the time of transit so complete will be the travelling arrangements that one can enjoy all the comforts and luxuries to be found in the best hotels. All this will bring us in effect so near that "the east" will cease to be a far off and almost mysterious country.

From many parts of the state THE OREGONIAN has information that the people are taking deep interest in the discussion of the liquor question, and that the sentiment for prohibition has been enormously augmented by the conduct of the free whisky association of Portland. Some say that the election of a legislature pledged to submit a prohibitory amendment to the people will be a live issue in the election of next year, and that the rural counties will give nearly a solid vote for such amendment when they have an opportunity to vote upon it. No observer can doubt that the tendency now is very much that way. The insufferable arrogance of the lowest class of liquor sellers is begetting a determination to meet them in a way that they will like even less than the exaction of license fees. It is well known that THE OREGONIAN distrusts the efficacy of prohibitory laws. Nevertheless, in such a contest it would lend all the aid in its power to those who believed such a measure could be made effective. If anything could bring this contest upon the liquor sellers it would be their own insolent behavior, of which there has been an illustration in this city for several months past.

The condition of the road leading from the Stark street ferry to Lone Fir cemetery is simply outrageous. The bridge west of the East Portland public school building has been condemned and a long circuit over an ungraded hill is necessary to get around the gulch. Beyond this the road is dangerously rough. The planks of which it was made, originally, are broken in many places and in many others gone altogether, and the road-bed is worn into deep [illegible] are apt, upon the least fright, to jump from the grade on either side, while passage, under the best possible circumstances, is tedious and uncomfortable. The road supervisor, or the street superintendent or the management of the cemetery, or somebody else ought to see that the road is repaired at once.

There has just been ploughed up in an Indiana field an interesting souvenir of the famous "hard-cider" campaign of 1840 in that state, in the shape of one of the medals that were then worn by the supporters of Harrison. It bears on one side a representation of a log cabin, and a barrel of cider placed under an adjoining tree. On the reverse side are the inscriptions, "The People's Choice, the Hero of Tippecanoe—Major General W. H. Harrison, born February 9, 1773." It will be presented to the Hon. Richard W. Thompson, who is the only survivor of the Indiana electoral college of that year.

A beautiful illustrated pamphlet of one hundred pages, on the Yellowstone National Park, has just been published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. It contains a full description of the wonders of the park, and is an ample guide to tourists who may wish to visit it. A detailed account is presented of the various routes by which the wonderland may be reached, and routes within the park are also fully described. J. K. Gill & Co. have it. The author is Mr. Henry J. Winser, who will be remembered by many as having visited Oregon last year.

Gov. Stoneman, it is reported, is moving heaven and earth to make California certainly democratic next year. Some of his methods which the papers are exposing are small enough. For example, the legislature at its last session made an appropriation for the national guard of that state, on the basis of the force as then existing, but the democratic state government has mustered into the force a new regiment, having in it three hundred democratic voters.

Beyond all question Lappeus would have been superseded by this time as chief of police had he not been strengthened by the attacks made upon him by unscrupulous enemies. They have done for Lappeus what he could not have done for himself. The only thing the "long felt want" has yet accomplished is the keeping of Lappeus in by trying, in obedience to ring dictation, to get him out.

During the year 1882 the total amount of tax collected in Ohio for state purposes amounted to $1,885,808. Taxation of the liquor traffic, hitherto free, will now yield the state fully $1,500,000 a year.

Referring to a feature of the Oregon tax laws the San Francisco Alta says: "Taxation of mortgages is an attempt to gather grapes from thorns and figs from thistles."

THE WHISKY WAR.

The First Case Carried into the State Circuit Court.

HOW THE LIQUOR MEN CONDUCT THE FIGHT

Another skirmish was begun yesterday in the legal war which the city of Portland has for the past three months been trying to wage against the unlicensed dives which infest the city to the number of a hundred or more. The rattle of the legal weapons began so suddenly and unexpectedly as to surprise the court reporters almost as much as it will the reading public to see it in these columns this morning. In fact, all good citizens had about come to the conclusion that there was no hope of getting through with the law's delays during the present century. Three months ago the keepers of these unlicensed liquor dens absolutely refused to obey the city ordinance regulating them in the direct interest of the peace and good order of the city. By so doing they not only became guilty of a misdemeanor, but also deliberately robbed the city of a revenue amounting to over $12,000. For this they have not been in the least way punished, but have each continued openly to violate the law 300 times each day, Sundays included, since the 1st of April of the present year. It is true that a feeble effort was made to bring these guilty gin-jerkers to justice, but of what avail? A low estimate shows that since these men became enemies to the laws of the city, and therefore to the public peace, each one of them has violated the license ordinance 25,000 times. A majority have been arrested one time, but several have escaped altogether. They believe in fighting the city, for it is money in their pockets. Instead of paying the city $600 a year for the privilege of making the army of criminals that fill the jails and penitentiaries, as they are at present, to overflowing, these patriots occasionally pay $10 to the whisky ring, of which "Col." Joe Taylor, "Captain" Schneider and Dick Gerdes, a member of the city council, are the head men, and it answers the same purpose.

Nearly every one is familiar with the endeavor of the city to punish these unlicensed liquor dealers. These endeavors did not fail because the city's lawyers were not diligent and energetic, but because every possible legal quibble that could be employed to gain time and delay justice was dragged forward by the whisky men and thrown in the city's path, rendering all their efforts weak and almost futile. Not one of these quibbles has stood in force the law, demurrers and arguments and affidavits and demurrers, with the thousand and one legal points that have been lugged forth from the dusty shelves and laid the courts to be read and investigated and found out that they have no bearing whatever upon the cases—why, all this has accomplished just what the whisky men desired. For three months they have defied the city and obtained thereby $12,000 to continue the fight in the courts. "Captain" Schneider was twice arrested, and disdaining to give bonds obtained his liberty on a writ of habeas corpus in the state circuit court. After many weeks, during which there were more arguments in law books submitted to and examined by the court than in the great star route trial, the writ was dismissed. The "Captain" gave bonds again and announced that he would carry it to the supreme court. Then it rests. The other whisky men arrested were tried in the police court and convicted. They immediately appealed to the state circuit court. The city was the only party put and injured, as the whisky men gave bonds for each other and went back to their gin-jerking. Tom gave bonds for Dick, Dick gave bonds for Harry and Harry gave bonds for Tom. It was a very pretty little game and the law said it was all right.

About a hundred of these appeal cases are now awaiting the convenience of the state circuit court. When this tribunal confirms the decision of the lower court in all these cases, the people are then promised the spectacle of seeing each one in turn taken before the supreme court. At the end of this time, in the year 1891, when it shall have been finally decided that the city of Portland has a right to regulate its crime-producing element, that element will be rich enough and strong enough to overawe and terrify respectable citizens, as they now defy them.

If all this is not an actual possibility, it might easily seem so to a stranger, who should have watched the opening of the trial in the state circuit court yesterday of the first of these cases—that of The City of Portland vs. Oliver Season. The entire afternoon was occupied and a jury was not even obtained.

The complaint against Season was first read, alleging that he did, upon the 18th of last April, sell, without a license, in the city of Portland, one gill of whisky. Frank V. Drake, of Drake & Stephens, the attorneys for the whisky ring, at once interposed a demurrer to the complaint upon the ground that it did not state facts sufficient to show a cause of action. The court without hesitation overruled the demurrer, and the trial began. Twelve jurymen were drawn from the regular panel and sworn. A rigid examination was then begun by Counselor Drake as to the qualifications of these jurors. Upon the part of the city, which was represented by the Hon. Richard Williams, the examination was somewhat different. He asked but one question: "Are you connected in any way with the liquor traffic?" Upon receiving a negative answer he pronounced himself satisfied with the juror in each case.

Among other questions asked by Counselor Drake was the following: "Are you a member of any temperance organization or blue ribbon society pledged to the suppression of the liquor traffic?" In no case was an affirmative answer given.

Another question was also asked: "Have you any bias or prejudice against persons who are engaged in the liquor traffic?" This was objected to by Mr. Williams, who said that the question was similar to asking a juror in a murder trial if he had any bias or prejudice against persons who committed murder. Judge Stott sustained the objection after nearly an hour been occupied by the lawyers in wrangling.

With one exception every juror examined stated that just at present he had no business. Mr. Williams said he didn't see why this jury shouldn't be kept here, at which early judge, jury and counsel all laughed. Meanwhile several jurors had been excused and the regular panel was exhausted. B. Beary was the last juror called, and after being occupied by Mr. Drake was examined by Mr. Williams as follows:

"What is your business, Mr. Beary?"

Juror—"Sort of general merchandise, confectionery, etc., in the Turn Halle building."

Mr. Williams—"Do you sell beer?"

Juror—"Yes, I sell beer and things."

Mr. Williams—"We'll excuse the juror."

Frank Harrington, who was an interested spectator outside the bar of justice, remarked sotto voce to a friend that he wanted it understood hereafter that he was engaged in a general merchandise business.

The regular panel was now exhausted and only the following named jurors, ten in number, had been obtained: John Beverly, Thomas Gordon, J. M. Gilman, Henry Wiener, J. H. Fisk, A. M. Cornelius, D. E. Buchanan, B. Boultsen, Bethel Woods and Samuel R. Stott. The following persons were examined and excused by Mr. Drake: C. W. Vellum, W. H. Cowie, Alonzo Gates and John M. Scott. Mr. Beary was the only juror not satisfactory to Mr. Williams.

It now being after 5 o'clock and nearly time for adjournment, Judge Stott asked: "How long will it take to try this case?"

Mr. Williams—"About fifteen minutes."

Mr. Drake—"It will take some time on the part of the defense."

Mr. Williams—"I am willing to try it with the present jury."

Mr. Drake—"I would prefer a full jury, your honor."

Mr. Williams—"I hate to think of putting in all day to-morrow trying this case."

Mr. Drake—"I don't think that will be necessary."

Mr. Williams—"It will be, if we don't get along any faster than we have to-day. We have been here ever since half past 1 o'clock and haven't got a jury yet."

Mr. Drake—"Your honor, I don't feel like going on with this case to-night. I am not strong enough, and I don't know what is the matter with me. For the first time in my life I have vomited blood this afternoon and I don't understand it."

This announcement created quite a sensation in the court room, and it was now remembered that about half an hour before Mr. Drake had asked to be excused, and had left the court room for several minutes. It was now learned that during that time he had suffered a severe hemorrhage, but with an indomitable energy he had returned to the court room as soon as it was over.

It being necessary for two more jurors to be summoned, Judge Stott adjourned court until this morning at 9 o'clock.

A cordial invitation is also extended to all sojourning brethren.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

PROPOSED NEW ROAD TO SOUTH PORTLAND.

Gerdes' Liquor Ordinance Lays Over Another Week—Joe Holladay Asks for a Double Track on First Street.

The city council met in adjourned session last night, Mayor Chapman in the chair and all members present. There was an unusually large attendance in the lobby.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From C. M. Rolf and others, remonstrating against the improvement of K street; referred to committee on streets.

From Funny Wallace, calling attention to the poor quality of rock used by contractors on the Fifteenth street improvement, same reference.

From the P. M. & Company, asking for the payment of warrants 7285 and 7286; referred to judiciary committee.

From E. Winsburg & Co., asking reduction in assessment; referred to committee on ways and means.

From John Cook and others, special policemen at the camp grounds, asking pay for each in the sum of $10 for services rendered; referred to committee on health and police.

From F. M. Arnold and others, complaining of the nuisance of the Chinese theatre "music," and asking relief therefrom; same reference.

From Joseph Holladay, president of the Portland Street Railway Company, asking franchise to build a double track on First street and to extend the double track to Wood street.

M. B. Banks, a resident of South Portland, asked permission to address the council; granted. He said that the people of the south end proposed to build a street railroad themselves. They had petitioned and waited for years without avail and now they proposed to help themselves. At the next meeting of the council they would present a communication asking for a franchise. The streets had not yet been decided, but would be before the next meeting. He therefore asked that action on the Holladay petition be deferred until their petition was received.

Honeyman said that the council had granted a franchise to Holladay six months ago, from the present terminus of his road to Woods street, and Joseph treated the matter with silent contempt. He was in favor of allowing Holladay to build a double track from Caruthers street to Woods street, and then if he occupies it to the satisfaction of the public it will be time enough to consider the feasibility of giving up to him the best street in town.

The communication was referred to the committee on streets.

REPORTS.

From the committee on ways and means on the application of Geo. Wagner & Co. asking for reduction of assessment; recommended that claim not be allowed as it was filed too late; adopted.

From the city auditor reporting judges and clerks entitled to pay at the recent election; warrants ordered drawn.

From the police judge reporting witness and jurors' fees for the past quarter; referred to committee on health and police.

From the committee on streets and public property reporting back to the same viewers the viewers' report on the proposed extension of Fourth street back of blocks I, J, K, L, and Y streets; adopted.

From the city surveyor in the extensions of north Twenty-first, south Fourteenth and B streets; referred to committee on streets and public property.

From the committee on health and police reporting back the nomination of Thos. Connell as chief of police without recommendation. No councilman having moved that the nomination be confirmed, as thereafter (second information).

The quarterly report of the treasurer and the semi-annual report of the auditor, and clerk were read and referred to the committee on ways and means.

Giving notice of the improvement of Front and South Front streets, from the north line of Harrison to the north line of Porter street, by macadamizing roadway full width, laying sidewalks and cross walks and a bridge twenty-four feet wide over Marquam's gulch similar to the bridge at First street.

Instructing the city surveyor to survey an extension of B street from its present western terminus to a line opposite the east boundary of the city park.

GERDES WANTS TO KNOW, YOU KNOW.

Under this head of miscellaneous business Gerdes rose to a point of inquiry. He desired information relative to the present liquor ordinance. There had been much controversy concerning the bond clause, he said, in the $600 a year and $1000 bond ordinance. Some claim that the bond runs for a year, others that it runs only three months. There were two learned lawyers in the council, and he would invite the views of Judge Adams, who was familiar with the ordinance. His opinion concerning one point, viz: whether the $1000 bond covered a license for one year or for one quarter. In other words, would a saloon keeper who filed bonds last April under the new law be entitled to a license for this quarter simply by the payment of $150, the license fee for one quarter.

Adams said that he had a decided opinion on the question, but declined to express it, for the reason that it was not his place and would probably have no weight. The city attorney was the proper person to speak in the matter, and as he was present, he could likely enlighten Mr. Gerdes.

City Attorney Rice said that there were so many conflicting opinions that he did not want to give his views.

Q. (asked by the mayor to the city attorney)—"Were the bonds executed last quarter for one year or for three months?"

City Attorney—"They were all given for one year. A case, involving this question, came up to-day in the city auditor's office and was referred to me. A saloon-keeper, who gave bonds last time, out a license last April, came in with a new bond which would probably be approved, and asked that the one on the old bond be renewed. I told them that this could not be done except by resolution of the council. The liquor bond is different from an official bond, and the time having expired the council could, of course release sureties."

City Auditor Curry—"All the bonds cover one year. There is a blank in the bond and all were filled out to cover that period."

Question by Councilman Sears—"Do I understand that the ordinance is silent on the question of the length of time which bonds shall cover?"

City Attorney—"Yes. The bonds now in the custody of the city auditor are all right, and saloon keepers who have furnished them need only to pay the license fee $150 at the beginning of each quarter to secure a license for the remaining three quarters."

On motion, Hillsboro lodge, No. 61, was permitted to meet twice a month.

The session then adjourned until 9 A. M. to-day.

State of the order.

In the second year of our organization there were fifteen new lodges and seventy-five members added producing $1,825 00. In the third year thirty-five new lodges and 1707 new members, making $3451; in the fourth year fourteen new lodges and 729 members increasing our income $1466, but this year we have but eight new lodges and 596 new members, producing but $905.

There have been sixty-two rejections this year, the great majority by our grand medical director. The percentage of rejections by this officer has been much higher this year than last, and taking into consideration the small number joining, shows that a greater care has been exercised. From this course of procedure good results must flow, and I am satisfied that we will reap our reward in the years to come. We have had three expulsions during the year, and for causes which seem to be deserving.

During the past year I have issued 895 beneficiary certificates, and in the same time 212 have been annulled, thirty have died, and —— expelled, leaving a net gain of 595. Our membership was reported at 3302 on June 30, 1882, but by time and care I found a number of errors, as explained in another portion of my report. These amounted to forty-six, which taken from the whole number, leaves our membership at the present time 3307.

Beneficiary fund receipts, $46,219; total amount of warrants drawn, $46,000.

General fund receipts, $4497 30; total amount of warrants drawn, $4283 41.

LODGES INSTITUTED.

At the meeting of the grand lodge in June, 1882, there were seventy-two lodges, and since that date the following have been instituted: Homer, No. 78, Oregon City, Oregon; Big Bend, No. 79, Sprague, W. T.; Fraternal, No. 80, Puget Sound, W. T.; Island, No. 81, Coupeville, W. T.; Ellensburg, No. 82, Ellensburg, W. T.; Prescott, No. 83, Prescott, W. T.; Whatcom, No. 84, Whatcom, W. T.; Mountain, No. 85, L Review, Oregon.

LODGES SURRENDERED.

The following lodges have had their charters annulled and are now defunct:

Halsey No. 54, Halsey, Ogn.
Hat No. 54, Pendleton, Ogn.
Samaritan No. 59, Perrydale, Ogn.
Northwest No. 72, New Dungeness, W. T.
Myrtle No. 46, New Castle, W. T.
Silver Lake No. 75, Cheney, W. T.

Leaving on the 30th of June seventy-four lodges in good standing.

During the year the medical director has examined 621 applicants, of whom 13 were rejected.

SHERIFF'S SALES.

EAST PORTLAND, July 11.

Mr. Sheriff, give us a catalogue. I notice another sheriff's sale advertised. The sheriff's sales heretofore have been anything but satisfactory to a large portion of the business people who are desirous of bidding on goods offered at sheriff's sales. No decent person cares to push, crowd, shove or otherwise maneuver himself in order to ascertain what is being offered for sale. In the recent sale on Front street a large amount of merchandise was sold. I may safely say that several scores of decent people turned away from the sale in disgust, simply because no facilities were afforded for bidders to bid intelligently. The writer of this has attended several sheriff's sales in the last few months. This is about the style of the auctioneer: "What do I hear for this lot? Yip, Yip, Yip." He does not state whether he is offering a pound of coffee or a dozen, and it is impossible for anybody but a rough to find out. Please give this a place in your paper, it may be the starter for something better.

A MERE RUMOR.

False Report that Capt. J. C. Ainsworth was closing out his Portland Interests.

An advertising column of THE OREGONIAN yesterday contained an announcement that three large properties in different parts of the city were for sale, and that application should be made to L. L. Hawkins. As Mr. Hawkins is known to be the agent here of Capt. J. C. Ainsworth, who has just been in the city on a visit, it is assumed by many that the latter gentleman was closing out his great interests here. A rumor to this effect gained general currency among those not knowing that properties advertised as for sale did not belong to Capt. Ainsworth, but to the Vaughn estate. An OREGONIAN reporter called on Mr. Hawkins last evening, who laughed at the rumor and said that he was merely offering for Mrs. Dr. Warren of New York, nee Miss Libbie Vaughn, a part of her Portland property. Capt. Ainsworth, he said, had no thought of disposing of his interests here or any part of them. On the contrary, it was his purpose to greatly increase his investments here. Mr. Thompson, for whom Mr. Hawkins also acts as Portland agent, shares Capt. Ainsworth's confidence in our city, and is making considerable additions to his interests here.

In the course of a general conversation which followed, Mr. Hawkins said that Capt. Ainsworth felt great interest in the bridge question and had on various occasions during his recent visit expressed the opinion that those protesting against the proposed bridge below the city are doing a very foolish thing. As a steamboat man of great experience at this port he considers that the bridge will not be an obstruction; and as a capitalist with large river front and various other interests in the city, he is in favor of a bridge wherever the railroad company may desire to put it.

Mrs. Dr. Warren, who has been in the city for several days past and left yesterday for a trip to Victoria, is selling her Portland property only because it is so far away from home—New York City.

The tools found in possession of George Harrington, Tuesday night, by Policemen Mott and Watson and supposed to have been stolen, were identified as such at the city jail that evening. The owner, W. Rumors concerning the whereabouts of the escaped convicts are unusually scarce this morning, the latest being that three of them were seen yesterday on the track of the narrow-gauge railroad leading from Woodburn to Silverton.

A petition is already in circulation asking Governor Moody to pardon Edward Konecke, sentenced a few days since to three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary on the charge of burglary. Inasmuch as he was successful in breaking jail during his confinement therein the petition does not meet with very general favor.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Civil Service Business.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Postmaster Adreon of Baltimore wrote to Postmaster General Gresham that the civil service commission was communicating directly with members of the local examining board at Baltimore, who were employes in his office, and that in his (Adreon's) opinion this was detrimental to the discipline of the office and contrary to the custom which requires official communications to subordinates to go first to the head department. The postmaster general has replied to Adreon that he sees no impropriety whatever in the civil service commissioners communicating directly with the local board of examiners relative to their duties under the law, notwithstanding they are employes in his office. The postmaster general says: "They are subordinates of yours in an official sense, but in respect of duties devolved on them by the civil service law and rules, as members of the local board of examiners, they are and should be independent of any authority save that created and conferred by law. The very object and spirit of the law require that they should be entirely free from any interference or supervision on the part of the head office in matters relating to their civil service duties. In this view of the case I think it entirely proper that the civil service commission should communicate directly with them on matters relating to their duties as members of the board. Of course it is to be presumed the commissioner will do nothing in that behalf that will interfere with the discipline of your office, as that would plainly be opposed to the spirit of the civil service law."

The Hill Investigation.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Barnett was cross-examined before the Hill investigating committee. He said he made about a dozen trips to New York during the progress of work on the postoffice, but relied on the foremen for settlement of specific work or material furnished. The foreman was to send detailed accounts of those expenditures had been lost or destroyed after the Hill was made out he had filed time sheets and other papers, but had not seen them since.

Coleman expressed surprise that Barnett should destroy [illegible] accounts, and the witness said that he should keep them hereafter, because he did not want a repetition of such a thing as this. Witness did not know anything of the steam heating branch of the business; that was in charge of Hayward; he believed Chas. F. Newton was superintendent of that work in the St. Louis postoffice building.

Question.—Why was he paid by the government?

Answer.—I don't know that he was.

Question.—What does this voucher mean here?

Answer.—It meant that he was foreman of the work.

Question.—Didn't he act as superintendent?

Answer.—I suppose so, or he would not have been paid.

Coleman asked witness how it was his firm had been more successful in obtaining contracts for lighting apparatus than its other work. He answered that they were the lowest bidders and had better facilities than any other firm; the [illegible] may have secured repair work from the government without advertisement; never did any such work by verbal authority of the supervising architect.

Coleman produced vouchers for work of this kind, but witness said he knew nothing of them, as they were vouchers for [illegible] in the department.

Coleman produced a voucher for $4000 for steam boilers, paid Barnett, Hayward & Co., and asserting that this contract had admittedly been awarded without competition, asked if witness did not regard that as evidence of undue favoritism.

Barnett refused to touch the papers, repeating his answer that they did not concern the work done by his department. Adjourned.

An Unexplained Robbery.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Final settlement was reached to-day in the case of Wm. H. Ottmen, who had undergone a number of trials here for the robbery of the United States treasury of $47,000. By a recent decision of the Attorney general a portion of that sum was distributed under a compromise offered by the lawyers, Biles and Crowley. The remainder, upwards of $12,000, was deposited in a bank at Alexandria, Va., and was attached by the government and suit to recover was ordered. The date for hearing the suit was yesterday, but the United States attorney at Alexandria, before proceeding, telegraphed to the attorney general for instructions. The latter replied instructing the attorney to dismiss the suit, as disposition of the money involved was subject to the same order as that disposed of under the Biles-Crowley compromise. The large balance in question, that so boldly stolen from the United States treasury, will now be turned over to Ottman, who is a bar-tender in New York.

Civil Service Examinations.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Dr. Gregory, civil service commissioner, and Chief Examiner Lyman have returned to Washington. Eaton and Thomas are expected this evening. Examinations for applicants for clerical positions in the executive departments will be held to-morrow and Friday. One hundred and ten applicants have been notified to appear each day at these examinations for the purpose of creating a list of eligible persons from which vacancies hereafter occurring in the executive departments are to be filled. About 200 applications for positions in the department for service at Washington will be placed on file by commissioners, applicants recently examined in various cities by members of the civil service commission, and the chief examiner will be notified by letter as to their standing as soon as papers in their respective cases can be examined and passed upon.

Crook and the Apaches.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Crook has come and gone as mysteriously to Washington as in Sonora, having succeeded in inducing the administration to adopt his views. There is pretty strong reason to believe that his persistence in having this policy adopted arises from the fact that the Apaches did not unconditionally surrender, but only agreed to go to San Carlos and that they still might be permitted to retain their arms. Secretary Teller has, in one sense, also carried his point, for he has declined to be responsible for peace at San Carlos agency after 500 of the wildest Apaches are put there.

Senator Sherman on Ohio Politics.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—A Washington correspondent telegraphs that Senator Sherman says to a friend that the republicans of Ohio were never more heartily united nor in better trim to enter a political campaign than at present. He takes a very cheerful view of the prospect, and in private conversation expresses the belief that the republicans will elect their candidate for governor by a good majority and also secure the majority in the legislature.

Revising Rules of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Senator Sherman, who is a member of the committee to revise the rules of the senate, says there will be no general meeting of the committee to consider the subject until October, when the sessions will probably be held in Washington. In the meantime Chairman Frye and one or two other members of the committee will confer together and arrange the business for the full committee.

The Whisky May Not Move.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—[Special.]—Representatives of the distilling interest do not rest on the opinion of the attorney general. The revenue bureau is reported as considering the opinion not as any instruction to that bureau with regard to the withdrawal of spirits from bond and their exportation, because the opinion was based upon a hypothetical statement, while the bureau itself deals only with facts.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Secretary Teller has decided to appoint a commission to visit the Indian territory to investigate the differences between the Seminole and the Choctaw factions of Creek Indians.

The president has accepted [illegible] miles of recently constructed Northern Pacific railroad in Montana, westward from the 325th to the 375th mile.

YAQUINA BAY NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEWPORT, July 7.

The steamer Benton is tied up by attachment.

Work on the harbor will continue for three months yet.

The weather is lovely here and the city and beach are alive with campers.

Fifteen laborers from Portland arrived. They will be employed at the government stone quarry.

The Kate and Annawill came out to-day in company with the Ange. The latter is bound for Gray's harbor.

Business on the bay has been very brisk the past week and our little city has been more life and bustle than ever before.

Mrs. R. R. Strahan, Miss Fanny Odeneal, Joe. Cauthorn and family and Mrs. Dunlway of the New Northwest are among the visitors.

The little steamer Mary Hal. has been thoroughly refitted and new machinery placed in her and is now making regular trips between Newport and Elk City.

John Dunlaw has disposed of his beautiful summer resort, which is located on the ocean beach two and a half miles from Cape Foulweather; consideration, $2500.

Work on tunnels and grades of the Oregon Pacific railroad has been stopped for the past week. The cause is dissatisfaction of the Chinamen. It is expected white labor will be used in future.

The steam ferry Robecca [illegible] has at last commenced to make regular trips. She is a fine boat and gives satisfaction to the public and owners. The bay can be crossed at any stage of water, a great convenience to the traveling public.

The mining enterprise of Roberts & Co. has proved more than a success. They are saving nearly all the gold, and have also demonstrated the fact that the white sands also contain paying quantities of gold. There is no doubt but with this company's machinery beach mining will be an extensive and paying enterprise.

BENTON COUNTY NEWS.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

CORVALLIS, July 11.

Farmers are busy making hay.

Extensive forest fires are raging in the Alsea mountains.

The government snag-puller was at work in the river here last week.

Mrs. J. H. Simpson died suddenly last evening of paralysis of the heart.

Col. I. W. [illegible], chief engineer of Oregon Pacific railroad, started for Yaquina this morning to superintend work on the coast division.

CROP PROSPECTS.

T. J. Blair, warehouseman of this city, recently visited the principal portions of the county lying between the river and the foothills, for the purpose of inspecting growing grain. He says that early or March sown grain has as good an appearance as is usual at this season, and will yield a full crop, while that sown after the rains will give but half a crop. The proportion of the latter to the whole acreage is about one-fifth. Mr. Blair is of the opinion that the increased acreage sown in the county this season will sufficiently offset the shortage of yield to give us a surplus for export equal to last year.

RAILROAD WORK.

A report having been extensively circulated that all work on the Oregon Pacific railroad have been abandoned, your correspondent called at the company's office yesterday and was informed by the manager that the report is doubtless grown out of a temporary strike of the Chinese employed, [illegible] of management of the work. These matters having been all arranged, work at the tunnels was resumed on Monday, and will be on the Yaquina end of the road as soon as the new Chinamen arrive to take the place of the strikers. Meanwhile the white force has continued at work, and have throughout been paid on the pay roll, as usual.

FUNERAL OF ARCHBISHOP PURCELL.

Imposing and Solemn Ceremonies Over the Dead Prelate at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, July 11.—The funeral of Archbishop Purcell was one of the most solemn services ever seen in the cathedral, which he built. At 9 o'clock crowds were at all the gates seeking admission by cards previously distributed. The body of the cathedral was soon filled, and then others were admitted to stand inside the aisles. The center aisle was kept clear. A platform was provided for the press. The body of the dead archbishop lay as placed yesterday, in a casket at the head of the main aisle, with the face visible to those in front. The interior of the cathedral was heavily draped. Bishop Elder, coadjutor of the deceased archbishop, was the celebrant of the occasion; Rev. W. J. Haller, assistant priest; Rev. J. G. Albrink, deacon; Rev. J. B. Murray, sub-deacon; acolytes, Rev. H. Ferneding, Rev. F. T. Dalton and Rev. P. A. Quinn; cross-bearer, W. H. Sibley; censer, Rev. Edward Hickey; masters of ceremonies, Rev. H. Muller, Rev. Thos. S. Byrne and Rev. J. F. Schoenhoft; pall-bearers, Rev. J. G. O'Donohue, Rev. B. Hinge, Rev. Charles Hahne, Rev. P. Kemp, Rev. M. O'Rourke and Rev. F. Doyle.

Fully 100 priests were present, in addition to the bishops and archbishops in purple, were on either side of the main altar, while the priests selected for the chanting occupied the main aisle. It was 9:20 when the organ proclaimed the beginning of the ceremonies. During the robing of the celebrant a bass solo was sung by T. J. Sullivan. Then followed the solemn ritual of pontifical requiem mass. The musical portion consisted of the introit, by choristers; the kyrie by male chorus; docetrest from Mozart, requiem by quartet and chorus; Dom of Jesu by male chorus; sanctus benedictus Agnus Dei by male chorus; communion by chanters; absolutions by chapters, and the bishop miserere by a male chorus, the whole under direction of J. A. Brockhoff. The music was of a high order of merit, and was rendered with deep feeling. The elevation of the host was marked by the most profound devotional attitude throughout the whole of the crowded cathedral.

THE EULOGY.

At 11 o'clock, mass being ended, Bishop Gilmore delivered the eulogy. He began by reference to the high office and high responsibilities of the priesthood. There were two orders in society—human and divine. Kings and magistrates represent the human, the priesthood represent the divine. This gives this scene its significance. The bishop gave a brief sketch of the life of deceased, dwelling with emphasis on the severe labor performed by the archbishop in the early years of his appointment to the diocese of Ohio, and showed what a mighty power the prelate had wielded in Catholic growth in the west. Fourteen priests of fifty years ago have increased to 482; the sixteen churches to 500, and his 5000 Catholics to 500,000. Archbishop Purcell, it is true, was aided in producing these results but to him belongs the honor of outlaying the great work. Speaking of his financial failure, the speaker said it was commented on most widely, but not even the bitterest ever charged Archbishop Purcell with personal dishonesty or evil intent. Poor he came into the world; poor he lived; and poor he went out of the world. The pathway of his whole live was strewn with works of kindness for the poor. When passions have calmed, and an impartial history is written, Purcell's memory will rise far above the shadow of reproach. He mistook the principles on which business must be conducted, but he was not guilty of wrong. He closed with a touching and eloquent tribute to the personal character and moral worth of the deceased, during which many were in tears.

THE PROCESSION.

The sermon was followed by the solemn ceremony of absolution, repeated by each of the five archbishops present. It was 12:45 when this was ended, yet the house remained as packed as it was at the beginning. A procession then formed and marched through the streets, returning by the cathedral, where it was joined by the hearse containing the remains of the archbishop and proceeded to the depot to take the train to St. Martins.

CRIMINAL.

ATTEMPTED MURDER IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, July 11.—A deliberate attempt to murder J. Johnson, foreman of the stereotyping room of the Boston Herald, was made to-night, about 12 o'clock. As Johnson was descending the stairs from the press-room to Williams' court, he was assaulted by a person who was hiding behind the closed half of a door. He was knocked down and pounded on the head with what is supposed to have been an iron bar. The weapon, however, has not been found. Johnson received four ghastly wounds on the head, and has been taken to the city hospital in a very low condition.

David Flannery, the night engineer in the press-room, who acted strangely after the assault, has been arrested. Three newsboys, who are detained as witnesses, saw the affair from the top of the stairs and identified Flannery as the man who committed the deed. They stated they saw Flannery hiding behind the door, lying in wait; that he struck Johnson as soon as he appeared; that the first blow knocked Johnson down, and that other blows were inflicted while he lay prostrate. Flannery, they say, endeavored to close the door to shut himself and Johnson in, but the latter's feet were in the way. He then flung the door back and ran down into the press-room. Johnson has identified Flannery at the police station as the man who struck him; but Flannery strenuously denies the charge. The victim knows no motive for the assault, and never had any trouble with Flannery.

PARTICULARS OF THE POLK CITY MURDER.

DES MOINES, July 11.—Following are the particulars of the murder of R. L. Clingan at Polk City, in this county, last night, so far as known: As Mr. Clingan, with his clerk, S. Manger, were closing their store for the night, two men came to the door, saying, "Good evening, gentlemen," drawing revolvers at the same time, and without any warning, firing at Clingan, the ball taking effect below the collar bone. He died instantly. There is no clue to the perpetrators. Two strangers were seen a short time before it occurred by persons going home from the Odd Fellows' lodge, but it being quite dark, no accurate description can be given of the murderers. The whole country adjacent to Polk City was aroused and squads of men on horseback spent the night in scouring the whole region. There is a report just now that the pursuers are close on the track of the murderers. Two horses that they had stolen, and ridden nearly to death, have been found abandoned. Two more horses were stolen there. It is generally supposed that this is the second chapter of a mysterious murder of [illegible], mayor of the place, last year, who was shot dead by masked men, who entered his bed room. Clingan and the were great friends, and Clingan has been taking an active part in ferreting out the murderers.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF A SISTER.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—A special from San Antonio, Texas, relates that fifteen days ago Sister Clemens, of the Corpus or Order of Divine Providence, mysteriously disappeared from New Braunfels, where the society has its educational institution. At first it was thought that she had gone to San Antonio or Austin, but inquiries failed to reveal her whereabouts. Yesterday Ejus Pfeiffer of New Braunfels found a skeleton in the mountains eight miles away from that town. Examination proved it to be that of the missing sister. She was a German, and had been only one year in this country. It is suggested that she grew home sick, but it is a rule of the society that no sister can go alone on the streets or highways. Disclosures of abduction and murder are expected.

INQUIRY INTO THE CARROLL FRAUDS.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The board of aldermen adopted the resolution attached to the report of a committee inquiring into the frauds alleged to have been committed by Carroll, clerk in the comptroller's office, and now dead. The resolution requires the comptroller to give bond for the faithful discharge of his duties, declares the system of accounting pursued in the finance department ineffectual, insufficient and a violation of the charter, and refers to the corporation counsel in the matter of instructing actions against the municipal magistrates in office during Carroll's three years, Ex-Mayor Cooper, John Kelly and Comptroller Campbell are the three magistrates referred to.

DRIVEN FROM A CAR BY TRAMPS.

GALESBURG, Ill., July 11.—Tuesday night four harvesters boarded a freight train at Whitehall, twelve miles north of this place, to steal a ride. When at this station four other men boarded the same car, apparently for the same purpose, but after the train was in motion they drew revolvers on the first four and, after making them deliver what money they had, drove them off the moving train. One man named Patrick Knight fell headlong and was killed. The four tramps responsible for the deed were arrested at Brighton yesterday afternoon.

BANK ROBBED.

ALBANY, July 11.—The bank of Franklin was robbed early this morning of $800 in silver. Two families living near were found gagged. The safe was blown open after two hours' work. The explosion took out nearly the whole front of the building, and set fire to the paper money of the bank in another safe.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

OSHKOSH, July 11.—J. R. Lopez, proprietor of a soap factory, was missed by his employes this evening, and after a search his remains were found in a soap vat eight feet deep. It is supposed that he fell in while emptying a barrel of fat. The body was horribly decomposed by the action of the soap, and lye, and the clothes were all eaten off.

CUTTING AFFRAY.

CHICAGO, July 11.—[Special.]—Geo. Bernhardt, a wild young man of Erie, Pa., a relative of the Parisian actress, got into a broil in the suburbs and deliberately ripped open the stomach of John Strucker. Bernhardt has been captured. His victim is dying.

REWARDS OFFERED.

DENVER, July 11.—Governor Grant this afternoon offered $500 reward for the arrest of each person criminally concerned in the recent Grand county murders.

ROCK HILL, S. C.—Rev. J. S. White says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for general debility. It restored me to strength and vigor."

Idaho.

On Tuesday of last week at Boise City William Buss, a Mexican, shot and killed Mark Johnson. The latter was drunk at the time and provoked the quarrel.

Boise Statesman, July 5: The Oregon Short Line is now running passenger cars fifty-two miles this side of Shoshone, to a point a mile and a half this side of Glenn's ferry, or half a mile below the stage station on Little Canyon creek. The cars arrive at this point at 8 o'clock A. M., and depart from this point east at 4 o'clock P. M. John Hailey, superintendent of the U. I. & O. stage line came to this point on Monday with the first passenger train, where the new [illegible] and has ample arrangements for stage passengers to arrive and depart on the arrival and departure of the train. Passengers for the east will leave here at 1 o'clock A. M. and arrive at the cars at 4 o'clock P. M. sharp. The stages remain at the Canyon creek station until 11 o'clock the next day, and on arrival of the train leave for Boise City, making connections with the Rocky Bar and Wood river stages at Mountain Home, and arriving here at 8 o'clock A. M. next day. This arrangement will only last two weeks, when the track will be laid to Jackson farm on Rattlesnake, eight miles below Mountain Home. A depot will be built at that point to accommodate the Rocky Bar travel from the north and the Bruneau travel from the south. The next objective point will be opposite Boise City, where Mr. Dodridge, superintendent of the O. S. L. road, says they expect to reach about the 1st of September. The stages to Shoshone have all been drawn off. The next temporary terminus this way on the railroad will be the Jackson or Rattlesnake depot.

A Big Thing at Helena.

Helena Herald, July 5.

The Northern Pacific was represented in yesterday's celebration by Superintendent Ainslie, chief of the Yellowstone and Rocky Mountain division of the road, by General Agent Fulton and Land Agent Stone, all of whom were seen in the imposing procession which met at the depot the magnificent incoming train from the east. They witnessed there the enthusiastic welcome of assembled thousands to the railroad and beheld with pride the grandest spectacle of the day—the departure from Helena of the Northern Pacific's first million train, carrying a million pounds of only one river product. The train was composed of thirty-five new box cars, labelled with large colored signs inscribed "N. P. R. R.—1,000,000 pounds (sugar) million, from Helena, M. T." Two ponderous engines, gaily decorated with bunting, drew the long line of richly freighted cars, the "send-off" being greeted by the firing of cannon, the sounding of locomotive whistles, the piping of fire engines, the music of bands and the shouts of the people. It was a sight no one of the thousands present will ever forget, and a fitting finale to the railroad part of the celebration.

No Fear of Incendiarism.

Astorian, Wednesday.

Sundry telegrams were received in this city last night from San Francisco, to the effect that the impression prevailed in insurance circles there that Astoria feared incendiarism, and if that was the case to cancel all policies. The parties who received the dispatches telegraphed back that the impression was unfounded, which is the case. Perhaps it is as well to state here that the vigilance committee which was organized here was organized with the intent to punish thieves who had endeavored to profit by an accidental fire. At no time has Astoria feared incendiarism, nor is there now the slightest reason to apprehend any danger from incendiarism. That impression, if it exists, is an erroneous one. Apart from incidental risk in common with other cities, there is no reason for insurance companies to be apprehensive in regard to policies on Astoria property, nor a single city on the coast where life and property is safer to-day than in this community.

The Last Spike.

Deer Lodge New Northwest, July 6.

Although an apparently semi-official announcement is made that the ceremony of laying the last rail and driving the last spike on the Northern Pacific railroad will take place at the western portal of the Mullan tunnel, Vice President Oakes and Chief Engineer Anderson have not been advised thereof and it is the opinion of both that the actual meeting point of the track laying from east and west will be between the mouth of Little Blackfoot and New Chicago. This, however will not prevent a formal "driving of the last spike" at the Mullan tunnel. General Anderson believes the track over the Mullan tunnel will be laid in two weeks, by which time track layers from the west will also have passed the three heavy bridges this side of Missoula and then the ties and iron will go down on the last hundred miles with lightning speed. The old saying that "the last drawn is the nigh" is now revised to read that "both ends are drawing nigh."

Astoria Commended.

San Francisco Chronicle.

The citizens of Astoria adopted the right course in their treatment of the lawless element in that city. A vigilance committee is never justifiable except in grave emergencies, such as occurred in San Francisco in 1851 and 1856, and in Seattle last year; but we fancy that any one reading the account of the looting of property by the Astoria men during the recent fire would place the Oregon city in the same category. Certainly the justice of the citizens seem to have been effective, and the lesson cannot fail to be a [illegible] to the thieves and cut-throats who infest ... [illegible] to.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, July 11.

Grocery houses report a light call from valley points but the eastern section and on up to Montana is buying largely. Our houses are preparing for completion of the Northern Pacific, and hope to be able to successfully compete with other distributing points on the coast as well as meet prices offered by many eastern points. With a good crop east of the mountains and a fair one in the valley business will gradually grow. Merchants are complaining of the mortgage tax law, now in force in this state, as very liable to work a hardship upon them; but the greater load will fall upon farmers whose fields are mortgaged to foreign capitalists. This capital has announced its intention of seeking other and more favorable states. With the calling in of this money when due farmers will be obliged to secure new loans at a higher rate of interest or suffer foreclosure. Either of these farmers can poorly afford at this time. Wool brought a low price and wheat promises no better. Thus it is that a movement to call a special meeting of the legislature has been organized. The act was passed against the votes of representatives from this money-ed centers, and its evil effects are almost altogether due to the votes of those whom it burdens. Whether the governor will call a special session without an assurance that a repeal will be had is still a question. It is proposed to address a circular, to all members of the house and senate, asking their views. Local bankers seem willing to let the act remain in force, not only that it will be a pecuniary benefit to them, but will prove a valuable lesson to the class that are continually seeking to harass capital.

Seattle capital, assisted to some extent by Yakima and Kittitas merchants, is now building a wagon road from Seattle over the mountains to Ellensburg in order that the Sound may enjoy the trade of the Yakima section. Freight from Portland for the same point goes up the Columbia to Priest Rapids, thence by an almost impassible road to its destination. Were a good road built from Priest Rapids to Ellensburg, freight charges would be very materially cheapened from Portland and our merchants enabled to compete with Seattle for this trade. Such a road can be built for $3000 and this sum should be immediately raised here.

A hay famine rules to-day, dealers having no stock and very little loose having come in for a week.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Audacious Robbery.

SALT LAKE, Utah, July 10.—This afternoon at 3 o'clock two men entered Zion's saving bank, on Main street, and while one engaged the attention of Mr. Schettler, the cashier, the other struck him over the head with an iron bar, felling him to the floor. The robbers then gathered all the money in sight, and ran. The noise attracted the attention of parties in the same building, who rushed in as the robbers ran out. They found the cashier bleeding profusely, but his wounds are pronounced not dangerous. The cashier identified one of the robbers as Day & Rich; and the other he says he knows by sight. Neither of them have been captured, but officers are in pursuit. The amount of money stolen is not yet known, but it is supposed it will not exceed $100.

LATER.—The robbery this afternoon was committed by a son of the apostle Rich and a son of Elias Smith, the probate judge of Salt Lake county. Smith was arrested to-night; but Rich is still at large.
